STRIKERS HOLDING EMERSON PLANT TO ENFORCE THEIR WAGE DEMANDS

Company Has Agreed to Recognize Union as Sole Bargaining Agency, But Pay Agreement Is Demanded.

LEADER EXPLAINS ADVANCED POSITION

Says Firm Failed to Keep Promises in Past—Occupation in 52nd Day—Injunction Suit Up Tomorrow.

The stay-in strike at the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co., now in its fifty-second day, has been carried to the point of occupying company property to compel compliance with a wage demand. It is believed this is the first stay-in strike which has continued after an employer has agreed to recognize a union as sole collective bargaining agency.

Justification of the union's unique position, William Sentner, CIO organizer, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, is the failure of frequent company promises of the past to materialize into higher wages.

When the men rejected the company offer, which granted union recognition but gave no definite wage agreement, they acted from "experience," said Sentner. "The leaders of this strike are men who have been with the company for years. They have received promises before. That is why they demanded something in 'black and white.'

Firm Promised to Negotiate. The company agreed to recognize the CIO affiliated United Electrical and Radio Workers of America and promised to negotiate wage and other demands within a month, but the 2000 strikers wanted a definite answer on their demands for a 40-cent hourly increase and a 6-cent hourly wage minimum before evacuating the plant, which had been in absolute control of 200 stay-ins.

The strikers were unable to obtain an answer from the company in their offer to evacuate the plant at 2018 Washington avenue if the company would dismiss its injunction suit to oust the strikers, filed yesterday, and not attempt to operate.

Oscar Debus, union president, said he was informed by John Dry, company superintendent, that the management saw no reason why the injunction suit should interfere with negotiations.

Although the union had stated that negotiations for a settlement of the strike would be broken off if the company rejected the evacuation offer, the union executive committee decided at noon to make a further attempt to obtain a definite reply from the management before taking action. The committee also intends to tell Mayor Dickmann and Chief of Police McCarthy that it considers the injunction suit provocative of trouble.

"Injunction Means Fight."

"An injunction means fight," Sentner told 500 Emerson strikers discussing the suit this morning. The CIO leader exhorted the strikers "to be ready for action tomorrow," when the injunction hearing will be conducted by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood.

Mass picketing was ordered this morning by the union, and about 300 pickets were on duty. Sentner's talk was made at a meeting of strikers in a vacant store across the street from the Emerson plant.

"We are not going to give up that plant until the company comes to some definite agreement," Sentner told the applauding strikers. "An injunction has meant 'fight' in New England, Chicago, California and other places, and it means the same thing here. We will fight until we can fight no longer. You will receive aid from every line of defense in the CIO and from the Illinois coal miners. We do not want trouble, but if it comes you have fits—use them."

Says Company Is "Stalling." The organizer said he had been offered the company proposal to end the strike, rejected by the rank and file strikers last week, was favorable and he had "bamboozled" the union executive committee into approving it. I have since found out that the company is stalling, that it can't be trusted, and that I was wrong and you have more sense than me."

DEPUTY COMPTROLLER OWES $952 TAXES FOR FOUR YEARS

Charles L. Cunningham's Delinquency Largest Found Among 14 Officials—He Says He Will Pay in Day or Two.

Deputy Comptroller Charles L. Cunningham owes $952.02 in delinquent real estate, and personal taxes for the last four years, it was learned today, in an inquiry into tax delinquency among public officials.

This was the largest debt for back taxes among 14 officials. As it happens, Cunningham is the chief assistant of Comptroller Louis Nolte, whose duty it is, under the law, to refuse to draw salary warrants for city officials when their tax payments are delinquent.

Nolte announced yesterday that he would withhold the pay warrants of three judges, five Aldermen and four other city officials owing $394.69 in back taxes, mostly for 1936, unless they paid up at once. Attention was called to the arrears of the various officials following the recent disclosure that Circuit Judge

U. S. STEEL SHARES LEAD BREAK IN STOCK PRICES

Decline Attributed in Part to Administration's Opposition to Advancing Retail Prices.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Speculative markets bent under fresh selling in late trading today, paced by a wide break in United States Steel.

U. S. Steel dropped as much as $1 a share on a general retreat in stocks attributed by brokers partly to the news from Washington focusing attention on administration efforts to put the brakes on advancing wholesale and retail prices.

Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and other steel shares also fell sharply. Many other industrial and rail stocks were off $1 to more than $1.

Commodity markets here and abroad joined the retreat, with the Chicago grain market an outstanding exception as corn breached the main selling currents. Losses in rubber futures were stretched to more than 1½ cents a pound in late trading. Cotton, copper futures and other staple markets were among the losers.

Five Get Jail Terms, Two Fined $250—Sentences of Others From Yale & Towne Plant Deferred.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 28.—Circuit Judge Arthur Webster held 79 women and 41 men, arrested during the eviction of sit-down strikers from the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. plant here, in contempt of court today for violating his injunction to them to vacate the plant. They had held the plant in a sit-down strike from March 9 until April 14.

George Edwards, United Automobile Workers' organizer, and Peter F. Sedler, who said he was an employee of the Kelsey Hayes Wheel Co. here, were fined $250 each and others were sentenced to jail for 30 days. Three others were sentenced to jail for 10 days.

Judge Webster deferred sentencing the rest until July 15.

PRESIDENT OFF FOR 10 DAYS OF FISHING IN TEXAS WATERS

Subterfuge Used to Get Everyone on Train Early So Roosevelt Gets Good Sleep.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Roosevelt left on his Southern fishing trip today, after White House attaches had resorted to subterfuge in order that the President might obtain a good night's sleep before departing.

Stragglers in the official party, who might otherwise have boarded the train at all hours of the early morning were told that it would depart at 1 a.m. Hence all were aboard and in their berths at that hour. The train did not depart, however, until 6 a.m., its scheduled leaving time.

The President boarded the train just before midnight.

Attorney-General Cummings, Secretary of Commerce Roper and Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt bade the President good-by at the station.

He will board the U. S. S. Potomac at New Orleans around 4 p.m. Thursday, and will fish along the Texas coast for about 10 days and return to Washington May 13 from Galveston and Fort Worth.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—The lethal gas execution bill, centralizing executions in the State penitentiary here, was reported favorably today by the House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence.

Originated and passed by the House as an electrocution measure, the bill was amended and passed by the Senate with provision for use of a lethal gas chamber instead of an electric chair at the penitentiary, in doing away with hangings in the counties.

THREE SENATORS JOIN OPPONENTS OF COURT SCHEME

M'CARRAN, O'MAHONEY AND HATCH, ALL MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE, TAKE STAND AGAINST PLAN.

REPORT SURE TO BE UNFAVORABLE

Burke Says His Group Is No Longer Fighting for "Mere Majority"—End of Compromise Talk Seen.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senator McCarran (Dem., Nev.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, announced opposition today to the Roosevelt court scheme. His action virtually assured an unfavorable report to the Senate on the measure.

Previously, checks of the committee membership had shown nine members—or half the committee—were opposed to the President's bill and would vote against it. McCarran made the tenth adverse vote and assured an adverse report provided no one should change.

He announced his position to the committee today at an executive session at which it was decided to vote on the bill and all amendments by May 13.

The Nevada Senator strongly urged the committee to accept his compromise, which would provide for a flat increase in the size of the court from nine to 11 members.

Two Others Against.

Shortly after McCarran made his announcement, two other here-publicly non-committal Senators—Hatch (Dem., New Mexico, and O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyoming)—announced they would oppose the Roosevelt bill for six new members of the court. They did not change their position.

Opponents expressed delight at the developments. Senator Burke (Dem., Nebraska), one of the opposition leaders, said he no longer was fighting for a "mere majority" against the bill, but was seeking to run it up as high as possible. Other opponents also virtually ended any possibility of a compromise in the committee. They said they would support the Roosevelt measure.

The testimony involving the deputy sheriffs was given by Mrs. Martha Howard, a waitress in the lunchroom, and her husband, Lawrence Howard. Among those who heard it was Daniel Boone Smith, Prosecuting Attorney of Harlan County.

The Howards, testifying with obvious reluctance and apprehension, said Deputy George Lee, Frank White, Allen Bowlin, Marcus Allred and Arnold Angel, accompanied by Merlin Middleton, a relative of Sheriff Middleton, the victim's father, was an organizer for the United Mine Workers' Union, and preached in the Baptist Church on Sunday.

KANSAS CITY ATTORNEY SHOT

J. H. Harbold in Serious Condition; Pistol at Side.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, April 28.—J. A. Harbold, 60 years old, Jewish attorney active in the Zionist movement, was found with a bullet wound in his head in a washroom near his law office late today. His condition was serious. A pistol was found on the floor near him.

He was known for his aid in sponsoring Marion Tally, Kansas opera singer.

Frankness of Deputies.

"What puzzles me," remarked Chairman Le Follette to Mrs. Howard, "is the frankness of these deputies in your presence. Why did they talk so freely before you about what they intended to do?"

"They don't care who hears them down there," she replied. "Plenty of others heard them, if they wasn't afraid to tell it. They would talk that way in front of anybody. There wasn't any law that would take them into court. Nobody would do anything to them down there, no matter what they did."

Discussing his visit to the White House, later, Gov. Browning reiterated his support of the national administration. With reference to the President's court proposal, the Governor said he found no reason not to "go along" with the President's views.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The bloody chronicle of Harlan County, Kentucky—story of an industrial terror carried out in the heart of the American backwoods with methods which included murder, dynamiting, arson, flogging and shooting from ambush—was brought to a new and gory climax before the La Follette Committee today.

Previously, checks of the committee membership had shown nine members—or half the committee—were opposed to the President's bill and would vote against it. McCarran made the tenth adverse vote and assured an adverse report provided no one should change.

ROOSEVELT POLICY HIT AS A ROAD TO STATE CAPITALISM

Virgil Jordan, Head of Industrial Board of U. S. Chamber Attacks Administration.

"DRIVEN BY POWER OF MASS DELUSION"

Governmental Machinery Declared to Have Operated to Undermine and Wreck Private Order.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Virgil Jordan of the National Industrial Conference Board contended in an address before the United States Chamber of Commerce today that the Roosevelt administration has built "a vast political organization designed to maintain it in permanent power."

Assuring that governmental mechanisms forged by the administration are designed to bring about "a system of state capitalism," Jordan said:

"The most important thing to remember about this governmental juggernaut is that it is irreversible. No matter how many there are who may desire it reversed, no political leaders or party today would try to reverse it."

"Undermining Private Order."

Reciting various administration policies, Jordan said these set up governmental machinery "that has been operating during the past four years to undermine and destroy the (private) enterprise order."

"It is practically complete, but a few more gadgets are being forged and will be fitted into place as soon as all constitutional obstacles are removed."

"It is engineered out of error, forged out of falsehood and driven by the power of mass delusion mobilized by demagoguery."

During the next decade, he declared, the Government may "cripple the working capacity of the people, dissipate the private capital resources of the community, . . . grind up the enterprising organization in all its vital parts and replace it with a form of state capitalism."

Social forces generated by the administration, he continued, "have driven the American people toward a destination that can only mean for them impoverishment, suffering, conflict, disillusion and demoralization."

The National Industrial Conference Board makes studies of economic problems, issuing statistical and other reports. It has headquarters in New York.

Opposes Amendment.

Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, replied to suggestions by other speakers that the Wagner Labor Relations Law should be revamped to fit responsibilities of labor unions. He contended experience with the act should be acquired "before we begin to write new laws."

"I do not for a moment condone or contend for any irresponsibility on the part of labor," he said, "but I do not jump from that principle to the immediate conclusion that some new statutory action is the way to complete responsibility. These leaders have a responsibility far savier than any law could lay upon them. They have the responsibility for the life and limb of their constituents."

Unless labor could bargain collectively through representatives "wholly independent of employer influence," McGrady said, "there is no real bargaining at all and wage rates are only an arbitrary decree of a more or less benevolent despotism fixing the conditions of labor in its own untrammeled discretion."

He advised his listeners not to try to stop labor unionization "but to use it and make it successful."

P. W. Litchfield of Akron, O., president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., urged establishment of a democratic basis between labor and management for conducting negotiations on wages, hours and working conditions.

"There can be no assurance of economic stability under conditions approximating a labor-dictatorship," he said, "nor can we achieve progress with the working man oppressed by autocratic capital. These paths lead to Communism or Fascism."

Rebel Air Bombing of Guernica Denounced in British Commons

"Massacre and Terrorism," Says Liberal Leader—Eden Declares Inquiry Is Being Made.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 28.—Labor and liberal opposition joined today in the House of Commons to assail the "massacre and terrorism" of the insurgent air raid on the Spanish Basque city of Guernica.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, notified British shipping that Franco had sent out this warning by radio:

"All ships of whatever nationality which navigate Spanish territorial waters of northern Spain between Capes Vídeo and Machicahue and which do not halt at the request of the Nationalist (insurgent) fleet will be fired upon and bombarded by the Nationalist fleet and aircraft."

"We have in the past," he said, "taken steps to make our attitude clear and to promote agreements to safeguard the civilian population and aircraft."

"His majesty's Government deeply deplored the bombardments of civilian populations, no matter who is responsible."

In response to a question, Eden said he had seen reports the planes which conducted the Guernica bombardment were foreign to Spain.

Labour benches protested loudly when Eden suggested "there have been air bombardments by both sides in Spain."

Minister of Communications Fernando Giner de los Rios denounced the attacks of fishermen as "a barbarous outrage" and said he would propose relief for the victims' families at the next cabinet meeting.

Fishermen who witnessed yesterday's Valencia bombardment, in which four persons were killed and 27 wounded, declared the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee stood out to sea beyond the insurgent cruisers Canarias and Baleares while the latter fired 30 shells into the city. The Graf Spee is assigned to the international neutrality patrol of Spanish waters.

BILBAO PREPARES TO EVACUATE ALL WOMEN, CHILDREN

Basque Government Considers Moving Them Out as Rebel Columns Draw Near City.

By the Associated Press.

SEBASTIAN, April 28.—The Basque Government began today to consider the evacuation of all women and children from Bilbao, as three columns of Gen. Emilio Mola's insurgent troops converged on the city, virtually unopposed.

The provincial council at Santander, 47 miles to the west, offered Basque authorities a haven for all women and children.

The population of Bilbao has swelled to almost 400,000 by steady streams of war refugees. Many homeless Basques continued to stream into the city from the bombing forays closer to the front, crowding the city and aggravating the food situation, which was reported to be only "fairly good."

Accounts of the swift advance of Gen. Mola's insurgents were withheld from the populace to prevent panic and internal disorder.

Authorities said they were confident Bilbao, with one side open to the sea, could withstand a lengthy siege. Defense forces were rushing work on reinforced concrete fortifications around the land sides of the town.

Authorities were preoccupied with the danger of aerial bombings raining death, destruction and fire on the cooped-up population and were feverishly building shelters.

The population of the capital of the Basques was fearful that it soon might suffer the same fate as Guernica, historic shrine of Basque independence, where 800 civilians were killed in insurgent aerial attack two days ago.

John Antonio Aguirre, president of the autonomous Basque province, admitted Bilbao's position was "serious."

"But the invaders shall never win, provided we are intent upon defending them," he said in a statement.

The enemy has advanced in several places before but later was vanquished. I do not hesitate to affirm they will also meet their defeat here."

Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent commanders, confident of swift seizure of Bilbao, expected the campaign to be the turning point of the war. Their troops were inside the mountains, south and east of the city. The mountains had been the defenders' strongest natural ally.

The rebels were poised for a big push over improved highways on the coastal plain.

Capture of Bilbao would give the insurgents control of the northern coast, a foothold for conquering the little remaining Government-held territory in the north, access to vital industrial supplies and Government munitions factories and freedom to shift their northern forces to the Madrid front.

Moscow Denies Clash in Far East. By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 28.—The Tass (Russian) News Agency denied reports today that Soviet cavalry invaded Manchukuo this week and fought Manchukuoan troops. The agency termed the reports "malicious, provocative invention."

Taylor went on, "and White started to run. I had two 45's on me, and I reached for them, but I couldn't do anything—I didn't have my hand to them."

"Then I grabbed the pistol with my right hand" he continued, "and held it let me have it through there."

He held up his right hand exhibiting a vivid scar, where a bullet had gone through the heel of his palm, emerging from his wrist.

"The door of my car fell open," Taylor pressed. "I ain't got no comment to say," he answered.

Deputy George Lee, a tall, white-haired, ruddy-faced man, was called next. Asked if he wished to comment on the testimony of the witness concerning events in the luncheon room, he said, quietly, "I don't think so."

"When I seen I was helpless, I started to run. White turned around then, and shot me in the back. I fell over in the ditch. I could hear them coming, and I figured my hand to me off."

"I seen my only chance was to play dead, so I laid my hands on my breast, so the blood would run all over me. White and Wash Irvin climbed down and I heard him say, 'Get him out of here.' White said, 'Let us never see him again.'

"I heard him say, 'Get him out of here.' White said, 'Let us never see him again.'

The Government troops withdrew from the Basque front said:

Basque militiamen and Government soldiers struck at insurgent lines in the Marquina sector, east of Bilbao, in an effort to prevent the insurgents from meeting another of their columns at Ondarroa, on the coast.

me, and was threatening to take me for a ride."

"Who are they?" "I understand them to mean the deputies."

Previous Attack on Muskies.

An earlier attack, in which shots were fired at Muskies and his wife, who were returning home from a visit on church affairs, was described by James Brewer, a Baptist deacon, and Hugh Taylor, a former mine guard. It occurred on the public highway, near Evaris, about dusk of Jan. 31.

Brewer and Taylor named several deputies as being in the cars from which the shots came.

Home Visited at Night.

The deacon said his home was visited on the night of Feb. 4 by George Lee, Alan Bowlin and another deputy. He said they had a search warrant "for 1100 pounds of meat."

"Where did they look?" "In the dresser drawer."

"For 1100 pounds of meat?"

"That's what they said."

"What do you think they were looking for?" "For United Mine Workers' literature."

Throughout the testimony, George Lee and Alan Bowlin were in the hearing room. Bowlin, who has been convicted of one murder, and acquitted of another, was relieved of his duties as deputy sheriff a few weeks ago.

Taylor quoted Deputy Sheriff Wash Irvin as saying on the morning preceding the Muskies killing, that "a bunch of us are going to shoot up Muskies' house."

Taylor said: "They told me that this investigation would soon die down, and that I had better stick to my high sheriff, and he would stick to me."

Purman to Tell of Offers.

Taylor was followed on the stand by his wife, and both testified that Taylor was visited during his convalescence by Sheriff Middleton and Clarence Poor, and promised first a job at $150 a month, and later a cash payment of $2000 and a new automobile, if he would hide out and absent himself from the present Senate investigation.

Taylor said he accepted the proposition, and that one payment of $150.00 was made to Mrs. Taylor by the sheriff, who also arranged for repairs on Taylor's car.

Referring to Middleton and Poor, Taylor said: "They told me that this investigation would soon die down, and that I had better stick to my high sheriff, and he would stick to me."

One Was Even Misplaced, One Points Out at Trial of Five Accused of Conspiracy to Defraud.

Further evidence designed to show there had been an organized plot in faked medical and chiropractic diplomas and licenses in Missouri, Iowa and Arkansas was presented today in the court of United States District Judge Charles E. Davis in the trial of George M. Lindsay of Kansas City and four co-defendants charged with misuse of the mails in a conspiracy to defraud.

Ebert of Cape Girardeau testified that in 1932 he paid $1000 to Lindsay and received in return, by mail, a diploma purporting to show he had graduated from the old Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery and an Arkansas chiropractic license. He said he never had attended the college and never had made regular application, nor been examined, for an Arkansas license.

Two other defendants, Mrs. Myrtle Long, former secretary of the Chiropractic Board of Engineers of Iowa, and Arthur E. Krebs, St. Louis chiropractor, have pleaded guilty. Their sentences have been deferred.

TOOK $250 for Chiropractic License, Gave Oral Quiz.

At yesterday's session Mrs. Long, testifying for the Government, said Lindsay had paid $250 to her in 1932 for a chiropractic license for his stepson. Although Iowa law required a written examination, she examined the younger Lindsay orally, she testified under questioning by Assistant United States Attorney David Robinson.

Mrs. Long, a plump, middle-aged woman, wearing spectacles and her hair bobbed, said the regular fee for a license was $20, adding that she had turned over no part of the $250 to the State of Iowa. She was secretary of the State board from 1934 until 1936, when she was indicted.

Similar testimony was given by Dr. Henry Fuehrer, also a former member of the university's faculty, who said that not only was his name on the diploma not in his handwriting but that it was incorrectly spelled "Fuehrer." His name was misspelled, too, he added, on a preparatory school certificate attached to the application of Gustave H. Lindhorst of St. Louis for Iowa chiropractic license.

Lindhorst had testified for the Government that he had not ever attended the preparatory school.

The Government contends that the diploma issued to the younger Lindsay and another issued to him were fraudulent.

Applications Inspected.

The next witness, Dr. Charles H. Young, secretary of the Arkansas Board of Examiners, was called by Government counsel to inspect a series of applications for chiropractic licenses. On the back of the applications were memorandums that licenses, which the Government contends were fraudulent, had been issued. This was before Dr. Young became secretary.

Dr. Young, in identifying the application made on behalf of Dr. Ebert, testified the memorandum on the back stated a license had been issued in 1922, defense counsel objected on the ground the time was too remote, and long prior to the alleged conspiracy.

United States Attorney Harry C. Rosen, however, said the Government would show the date was incorrect, "probably put there for a signature by Dr. Laws (Dr. Claude Laws, one of the defendants), a former secretary of the board."

He pointed out that Ebert had testified he had received the memo from the older Lindsay in

On Trial With Lindsay.

The trial with the Lindsays, Dr. Alexander, former head of the defunct Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery, charged by Government with having forged diplomas to Lindsay and Dr. William T. Gallagher of Kansas City, whose chance arrest in 1934 led to the Federal indictment, "Prince Ali Yehia" Debeh, it is alleged, posed as an Arabic Prince and became an "arab specialist" after acquiring an Arabic name.

Linhorst, a former drug salesman, 4048 Junius street, testified he paid $750 to the older Lindsay, sending it by telegraph, for a fraudulent diploma from a chiropractic school and a certificate purporting to show he had completed a high school course.

Lindsay, he related, met him at the Annex Hotel here in 1933 or 1934 and advised him to take a course in osteopathy. He declared that a diploma bearing the name of the dean of the Kansas City Chiropractic University, was prepared for him by Lindsay and that he had not, in fact, been graduated from the school. The purported diploma, attached to Linhorst's application for an Iowa chiropractic license, was introduced.

The Government introduced also a letter addressed to Linhorst and signed "G. M. L." It read: "Dear Doc: This will introduce Mr. Wil-

STALL COMPLETES CASE AGAINST DENHARDT

Rests After Offering 42 Witnesses at Trial on Charge of Finance's Murder.

By the Associated Press.

NEW CASTLE, Ky., April 28.—The State rested late today in the trial of Henry H. Denhardt, former Lieutenant-Governor, charged with the murder of his fiancee, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor. The State put 42 witnesses on the stand.

Judge Charles C. Marshall ordered the jury taken from the courtroom while attorneys for the defense argued a motion for a dismissal on a directed verdict.

The bullet that killed Mrs. Taylor was fired "at a distance not less than nine inches and probably more than 12," the jury was told yesterday.

Over objections by the defense counsel, Dr. A. J. Miller of the University of Louisville, was allowed to give his estimate of the distance the pistol was held from her body when it was fired. Witnesses had testified that Denhardt had expressed a belief that his fiancee had killed herself.

The State Highway Commission has decided to take alternate bids for a new floor and other improvements on the St. Charles road bridge over the Missouri River at St. Charles, to determine whether it will be possible for traffic to use the structure while work is going on.

One method would require the contractor to use double shifts to facilitate the work, while traffic would use a ferry or go around by the new Weidens Springs bridge to be opened in June. The other method would permit maintenance of one-way traffic on the old bridge, except when the approaches were being connected with the river spans.

In a letter to Guy C. Motley, chairman of the St. Charles Town and County Club, a spokesman for the State Highway Commission said today that it was problematical whether a sufficiently large ferry could be obtained and whether any ferry could handle the rush-hour traffic.

TWO AIRLINES MAKE FORCED LANDINGS; NO ONE INJURED

One Ship Comes Down at Cheyenne, Another at Sterling, Colo.

DENVER, April 28.—Two transport planes, carrying passengers, were forced down in this area last night.

At the edge of the Cheyenne (Wyo.) field, a United Air Lines plane shattered its landing gear when Pilot Cliff Coppen made a forced landing. None of the nine passengers or crew of three was injured. The reason for the mishap was not determined.

At Sterling, Colo., a Wyoming Air Lines plane made a forced landing on a field lighted with automobile headlights after a short wave operator notified the fire department. The Sterling landing was caused, Pilot H. C. Holloway said, by bad weather.

CONTRACTOR TELLS OF NEW COMBINE OF PLASTERERS

J. P. Becker Names Some Defendants in PWA Fraud Trial as Active in Organization.

"CHECKING BIDS TO GET RIGHT PRICES"

Witness Says Suggestion Was Made by Nichols—Testimony Is Delayed by Defense Objections.

John P. Becker, plastering contractor and treasurer of the Plastering Contractors' Association, no longer in existence, testified in United States District Court this afternoon as the first witness for the Government, except for witnesses who identified documentary evidence, in the trial of five plastering contractors and four labor union leaders charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government through excessive prices on PWA contracts.

Becker was called to testify concerning the circumstances which led to dissolution of the Plastering Contractors' Association in January, 1935, and the formation of a new organization, the Contracting Plasterers' Association, which, the Government alleges, was set up in furtherance of the scheme to defraud.

Defense Objections.

Defense objections, on the ground that the basis for Becker's testimony had not been laid by presenting evidence of the alleged conspiracy, interrupted Becker's testimony soon after he had started. There was a whispered conference between counsel and Judge George H. Moore, after which a recess was declared while the Judge conferred with counsel in his chamber.

The Government contended it was entitled to proceed with Becker's testimony on the promise that the conspiracy evidence would be introduced in due course. Before the recess Becker had testified that he was present at a meeting of plastering contractors in September, 1934, which was attended by five of the defendants.

After the recess Judge Moore permitted Becker to resume his testimony, but instructed the jury that Becker quoted any statements attributed to one of the defendants was not to be considered binding on the others, "unless and until" conspiracy was established.

Tells of 1934 Meeting.

Becker then told of a meeting in October, 1934, at which those present included Harry Nichols, president of the Contracting Plasterers' Association; George F. Robertson Jr., Frank R. Rowan and Peter Anderson, four of the five contractor defendants, as well as four union representatives whom the witness did not name.

Nichols, Becker said, presided at that meeting, and told members of the Plastering Contractors' Association they would have to disband their organization and apply individually for membership in the Contracting Plasterers' Association.

Becker said he and three others voted against that plan, and sought representation on the N.R.A. Code Authority for the industry through the Plastering Contractors' Association.

Several women left the courtroom when Judge Moore announced after Becker had whispered to him, that some offensive testimony was to be given. Becker then quoted Nichols concerning the treatment members of the Plastering Contractors' Association had received and might expect from the organization of which Nichols was president.

"Checking Bids."

The name of the fifth defendant contractor, John Carroll, entered Becker's testimony when he told of a meeting in February, 1935, at which, he said, Carroll and the other four were present. At that meeting, he said, Nichols suggested a "system of checking bids to get the right kind of price" and a committee was established to review bids made by members of the Contracting Plasterers' Association.

The defense denies there was any conspiracy and contends that because PWA grants were based on 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, it would have been physically impossible for the defendants to have defrauded the Government.

In addition, the defense will rely on the contention that the acts which the Government cites as evidence of conspiracy were sanctioned by the N.R.A. code for the plastering industry.

EMIT CITIZENS NOMINATED FOR THE ST. LOUIS AWARD

They include Carter W. Atkins, Dr. George Brodbeck, Mrs. George W. Gellhorn, and Oscar Johnson.

Gellhorn was nominated for her work in behalf of social legislation in Missouri.

Mrs. Grossman has been interested in the Public Defender Plan. Oscar Johnson is president of the Symphony Society and Smith is president of the Little Symphony service. WOMEN WIN ONE-DAY SIT-DOWN

Thousands in Milwaukee Dress Factory to Get Pay Increase.

MILWAUKEE, April 28.—Union garment workers employed at the Rheem Manufacturing Co. ratified today an agreement ending a one-day sit-down strike. The settlement provided for a 40-hour week, an average increase of 5 per cent in wages, which brought the minimum to $14 a week, a modified bonus system, and a change in the factory superintendence.

The companies named in the suit entered into contracts to employ only members of the union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, March 8. They employ about half of the 2000 cleaners in St. Louis and its suburbs.

Besides the companies and the union, individuals named include Ted Graham, organizer, and 22 members of the union. About 70 branch collecting stations of Howard Cleaners have been picketed during the strike.

PUPILS FINGERPRINTS SOUGHT

St. Charles School Board Asked to Approve Proposal.

Sgt. Frank D. Hagan of the Missouri State Highway Patrol yesterday asked the Board of Education to approve a plan to take fingerprints of every pupil in grade and high schools at St. Charles. The matter was taken under advisement. If the board responds favorably, parochial school boards will still be asked to follow suit. Sgt. Hagan said prints would be sent to Washington for identification purposes and would be kept from criminal records. Fingerprints of students in other cities have aided materially in the identification of those who met with accidents, lost their lives, or became victims of amnesia, it was said. No arrest would be required to submit to the taking of prints against will. There are 2834 students in St. Charles.

VAN SWERINGEN DEAL

CLOSED FOR $6,375,000

Purchasers Disclose $4,000,000 Is Payable in Cash and Balance in Two Years.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 28.—It was for a purchase price of $6,375,000 that Robert R. Young, Frank F. Kolbe and Allan P. Kirby acquired the key securities controlling the $3,000,000 Van Sweringen railroads, it was disclosed last night. Young issued a printed statement at his Park avenue apartment which said:

"The price which the purchasing group agreed to pay was $6,375,000, payable $4,000,000 in cash and the balance in a two-year note bearing interest at 2½ per cent, due May 4, 1939."

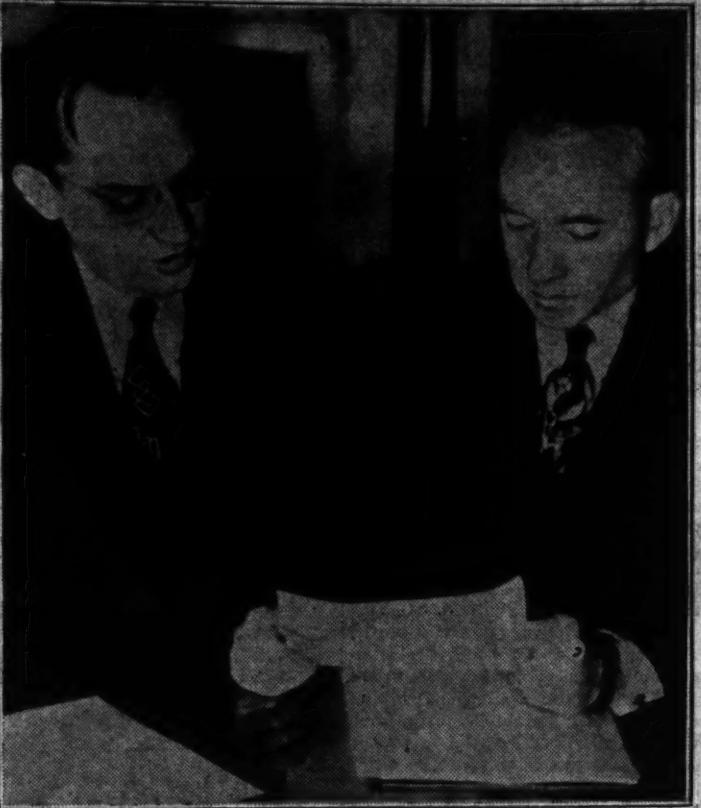

This was the first disclosure of the amount involved in the transaction whereby the three comparatively young and little known financiers acquired Midamerica Corporation form a charitable foundation formed a month ago by George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., capitalist. Most Wall Street guesses as to the price paid were around $5,000,000.

Bell Had Paid $8,121,000.

When George A. Ball bought the securities, with Midamerica Corporation which he formed for the purpose, at a public auction two years ago the price paid was $312,000.

The purchase made by the Young-Kolbe-Kirby group, it was explained, consists of bonds, preferred and common stock of Alleghany Corporation, chief holding company in the Van Sweringen set-up, "and miscellaneous accounts receivable, notes receivable, and securities related to the Cleveland real estate properties (of the late Van Sweringen brothers)."

"We hope to eliminate either Chesapeake Corporation or Alleghany Corporation," he said with respect to two of the major holding companies.

Young said it was their plan eventually to unify the Eastern and Western roads into separate systems or groups. This would presumably mean bringing together the Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette into a single system extending from St. Louis and Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard, while the Missouri Pacific group of roads would be realigned into a system extending from the Mississippi Valley into the West and Southwest.

He made it clear, however, that there were no immediate plans towards unification of the roads, "it would be a long time in developing," he said, "perhaps three or four years. How the program will be worked out remains to be seen."

Eventual Rail Unification.

In an interview Young said it was the plan of his group "to shrink the entire corporate structure" rather than expand it.

TWO-UNION PLANT CLOSED BY RIOTING FOLLOWING STRIKE

Auto Workers Comprising Half of Men at Refrigerator and Trailer Concern Walk Out.

By the Associated Press
CONNERSVILLE, Ind., April 28.—About 600 workmen marched from the Rex Manufacturing Co. plant here today amid hoots and catcalls of more than 300 United Automobile Workers of America who had patrolled outside of the building. Shouts of "we want a closed shop" came from UAWA pickets.

The exodus from the plant followed rioting in which three men suffered injuries requiring medical attention. Many other workmen were cut and bruised in the fighting which followed the calling of a UAWA strike.

Elmer Davis, UAWA organizer, announced a temporary truce had been ordered pending a conference with Thomas Hutson, State Labor Commissioner.

Going to Labor Board. Hutson said later: "This is a matter for the National Labor Relations Board and the case will be turned over to it this afternoon." Davis said he would accompany Hutson to Indianapolis and place the matter before Robert Cowdrill, regional director of the Labor Board. He said he would file charges of coercion and intimidation against the company, alleging efforts have been made to discourage employees from affiliating with the UAWA.

Early in the day a conference of labor leaders and company officers ended without agreement. Another was set for 7 p.m.

Davis said he had issued a demand for a closed shop. He said the existence of two rival unions in the same plant was impossible. The 600 workmen who marched from the plant were members of the Cabinet and Refrigerator Workers' Protective Association. They refused to join the UAWA strike called late yesterday and remained in the plant until early today. The rioting began when the UAWA pickets prevented approximately 500 night shift workers from entering the building.

Clubs and fists were used freely by both sides. Some of the men were armed with pieces of pipe. Windows in the plant were broken in the melee and automobile windshields broken by flying missiles.

After the hand-to-hand combat there was comparative quiet, with the pickets still around the plant.

Davis said the strike had been called "because the company discriminated against UAWA members and declined to confer with a grievance committee."

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, in Indianapolis, awaited Hutson's report before considering sending troops.

"If city and county authorities request aid and if I am convinced life and property are in danger, I will dispatch troops to Connorsville at once," the Governor said.

Major William Dentlinger said he thought the situation was "under control, for the time being at least." He said no arrests were made.

Plant Closed Down.

Pickets remained on duty outside of the plant today. Davis said company officers had agreed not to resume operations until the strike had been settled.

The Rex company, which manufactures electric refrigerators and automobile trailers, was closed in March by a four-day sit-down strike. Work was resumed after the company recognized the UAWA as the sole bargaining agency for members of that union, established a standard work week and granted a wage increase.

The firm employs approximately 1400 men. It was said half of the employees were affiliated with UAWA and the others, with the cabinet and refrigerator workers.

STRIKERS HOLDING EMERSON PLANT TO ENFORCE PAY DEMANDS

ers to jail before this is over," Sentner declared, "but other leaders will take our places and the fight will go on until this company takes a licking. We have sought to be peaceful, but this move by the company would even prohibit peaceful picketing." Sentner concluded with the charge that the Emerson management, which had expressed a desire to conform with the provisions of the Wagner Act, "is only giving lip service to the law."

Defendants in the injunction suit are Sentner, about 100 stay-in strikers and officers of Local Union 1102, United Electrical & Radio Workers' Union of America.

Notice of Suit Read to Men.

Notice of the suit was read to the stay-in strikers yesterday afternoon by Sheriff James J. Fitzsimmons. The strikers at first refused to admit the Sheriff, who was accompanied by four deputies, but later let him in with Joseph Lennon, union attorney. The suit charged that the strikers seized the plant as a result of a conspiracy and have refused to permit officers of the company on the premises, although the company "has made every peaceable effort to obtain possession of its property."

The union, which called the strike March 8, says it represents all of the 2000 production employees. A general strike committee is being set up to co-ordinate the union activities in three electrical plant strikes here and to further the drive in the St. Louis electrical manufacturing industry.

Editorial employees with less than three years' experience will receive a minimum of $2 a week the first year, $30 the second and $35 the third year.

There is no provision for either the closed or preferential shop.

Severance payments range from one week's pay at the end of one year's service, to a maximum of 24 weeks' pay at the end of 15 years' service. In case of death, payment is made to next of kin.

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—The Cleveland News signed today a new contract with the Cleveland News-Guild providing a $45 minimum weekly salary for editorial employees of three years' experience, as compared with an earlier contract rate of $40.

The new agreement provides for the five-day, 40-hour week for "all editorial employees." The short week did not apply to the news editor, telegraph editor, city editor, assistant city editor, sports editor and picture editor in the former contract.

Five Century Co. Employees, Two of Them Women, Beaten.

Five employees of the Century Electric Co., including two women, were beaten in assault today and late yesterday. None required medical attention.

Leslie Brown, 5188 Vernon avenue, and Milton Hornburg, 1410 North Euclid avenue, were attacked by five men as they neared the company's plants, at Eighteenth and Pine streets, this morning.

Robert Chase, a Century worker, and his wife, Viola, who met him at a street car stop, were beaten by four men while walking near their home, 2234 Shenandoah avenue, at 5:30 p.m. The men fled in an automobile.

Miss Eleanor Birtley, 4083 Bowen street, and Erna Sandt, 4741 South Broadway, were beaten by five women when they alighted from a street car at Thurman and Magnolia avenues yesterday afternoon. The assailants fled in an automobile occupied by two men. Police later booked Mrs. Virginia Siems, 4300 South Compton avenue, for peace disturbance on her admission that she participated in the altercation. She told police that she was struck by Erna Sandt.

John Camp, Century worker, was booked for carrying concealed weapons after a policeman found a billie and a knife with a six-inch blade in his ear. He was arrested on complaint of Rollie Ball, a striker, who said Camp threatened him with a rifle when they met on the street Monday. Camp, also booked for peace disturbance on Ball's complaint, was released on bond.

Union organizers attended a meeting of 27 Century motor wipers yesterday at a tavern at Jefferson avenue and Lynch street, and reported that 15 of the group joined the CIO union.

The motor wipers said they were notified of the meeting by telephone by a man, who gave the name of a foreman. The foreman denied to union organizers that he called the meeting, which presumably was for discussion of return to work. Henry Piering, financial secretary of the Century union, said 120 of the 150 motor wipers are in the union.

STANLEY REED ON THE SUPREME COURT

He Denies Conflict Between His Reports on Docket and President's Message.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senator Ashurst (Dem., Ariz.) chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, submitted to the committee today a letter from Stanley Reed, Solicitor General, denying an inconsistency between his reports on the condition of the Supreme Court docket and the President's message on the judiciary bill.

Witnesses before the committee frequently contended that the President's message was in conflict with recent annual reports of the Solicitor-General and Attorney-General Cummings. With this in mind, Ashurst wrote Reed April 19, asking if his annual report was consistent with the Chief Executive's message.

"I may state," Reed replied, "that my comments on the work of the Supreme Court, contained in the annual report of the Attorney-General for the fiscal year 1936 are entirely consistent with the language in the President's message on judicial reorganization and the accompanying letter of the Attorney-General."

Reed's Explanation.
These documents contain nothing which could be construed as an intimation that the Supreme Court is not up with its work. Any charge that the President was misled by erroneous information furnished him collapses before the obvious fact that no such position was taken. As no such position was taken, any discussion designed to refute it is of course wide of the mark.

"Insofar as the President's message refers to the present work of the Supreme Court, it points out that 'even now the Supreme Court is laboring under a heavy burden,' suggests that this burden will be increased if certain recommendations are followed, and raises the question whether 'full justice is achieved when, faced by the sheer necessity of keeping up with its business, 87 per cent of the cases in which certiorari is sought by private litigants are declined without explanation.'

Reed added that the power of determining what cases should be reviewed "necessarily imposes a great burden upon the court."

Abreast of Docket.
"Although the court has remained abreast of its docket," he said, "there can be no question in my judgment that the burden resting upon the court has increased substantially in recent years—both the burden of hearing and deciding cases and the burden of determining whether petitions for review should be granted. That greatly increased burden is demonstrated, not refuted, by my report."

In reply to other questions from Ashurst, Reed said the President's proposal would relieve congestion and speed litigation in the lower courts and that an increase in the size of the Supreme Court should not "impair its efficiency."

Reed said there was no "imperative reason" why all members of the court should be required to pass on preliminary questions of appeal.

The President's proposals, he said, "would enable each member of the court to devote a larger share of his time and energies to the most vital phase of the court's work. The most exacting and important task of the Justices, and most significant in contributing to the development of the law, is the preparation of opinions."

"It seems plain that the performance of that function would be measurably aided by an increase in the number of Justices, which would occasion the writing of relatively fewer opinions by each."

WHEELER SAYS ROOSEVELT WANTS 'RUBBER STAMP' COURT

Senator Wheeler Campaign Against Bill to Mass Meeting in Rochester, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 28.—Carrying his fight against President Roosevelt's judiciary reorganization proposals before a mass meeting here last night, Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) declared the motive behind the program is that the administration wants assurance that New Deal legislation "well drafted or poorly drafted" will be declared unconstitutional.

Wheeler cited Chief Justice Brandeis, oldest member of the tribunal, as a refutation of the theory that age renders a Justice unwise.

"Would the appointment of any honest liberal to the bench insure the passage of all administration legislation?" he asked. "Of course not, for honest liberals will differ as to methods and means of accomplishing their objective, although they might well agree on that objective. So it isn't liberal, they want but rubber stamp."

FARLEY SAYS RECOVERY HINGES ON COURT BILL

Declares in Illinois Speech That Legislation Is Vital to Roosevelt Program.

By the Associated Press
GALESBURG, Ill., April 28.—Postmaster-General James A. Farley said in an address here last night the "entire success" of President Roosevelt's administration and its recovery program "hinges on the enactment" of the court reorganization proposal.

Terming it "the most important matter that has arisen since Franklin Roosevelt undertook the great task of pulling this country out of the mire of depression and disaster," he told members of the Galesburg American Legion Post:

"Frankly, it seems to me that the entire success of his administration and the success of the recovery program hinges on the enactment of this legislation."

Farley predicted the plan would be adopted "whenever the opposition permits Congress to vote on it."

Tells of Further Steps Needed.

He said that, although the ultimately invalidated N.R.A. and AAA had pointed the nation back to better times, further steps were necessary.

"True, we have a degree of prosperity," Farley asserted, "a great surplus crop on the farms or a widespread drought might check that prosperity. American mills and factories are for the most part running well, but every strike and lockout threatens the whole course of industry. Some formulas must be found to mitigate, at least, these recurring setbacks."

"Well, there's the situation and the President is faced with the necessity of finding a way to cure it. Every time a major industrial crisis develops he is called upon to straighten it out. But there is not a single law on the statute book that gives the Federal Government authority to intervene effectively."

"Congress has before it certain laws aimed to provide at least an approach to handling such situations, but neither Congress nor the executive knows what the fate of such laws will be when the Supreme Court considers their validity."

"Feathers Will Be Buffed."

The Democratic chairman termed properties of "disruption" of his party over the court issue "abusive" and added:

"When the court legislation has gone through . . . we will settle down to our normal business . . . Some feathers will be ruffled and some individuals will be jostled, but that is all the political effect."

He charged Republicans "seem to have supplied the funds for the most voluminous propaganda distribution this country has ever experienced outside of an election period."

"They are trying," he said, "to reverse the verdict of the people last November."

HIGHER SCHOOL TAX VOTED

Normandy Increases Levy From 30 to 40 Cents On the $100.

A proposal to increase the Normandy School District building fund tax from 30 to 40 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation was approved at a special election yesterday, 244 to 316. A two-thirds vote was required.

The increase, defeated by 39 votes at the regular election April 6, brings the total school tax to $1.95.

DR. H. W. WOODRUFF

FUNERAL IN JOLIET

Father Arranges for Burial of St. Louisian Who Killed Self Near St. James, Mo.

The remains of Dr. Harry W. Woodruff, eye specialist at City Hospital, who disappeared Dec. 26, and who ended his life with poison soon afterward in the woods near St. James, Mo., will be taken to Joliet, Ill., by his father, Dr. H. W. Woodruff, for burial.

A woodcutter found the scattered remains and took clothing yesterday on the slope of an Oak knob near the St. James-Salem highway, three miles south of the town and about 100 miles from St. Louis. A bottle with poison label, and two notes found in the coat, showed that the physician, who was 28 years old, had ended his life. It was evident that animals had molested the body.

One of the notes, on City Hospital stationery, was to the father who, since his unexplained departure, has conducted an unfruitful search. "This event," the young man wrote, "has been long contemplated, often postponed. I am tired of fighting myself." Another note, addressed to a young woman in Joliet, said: "This deed arises from the intolerable and ineradicable aberration of my own personality, rather than from any possible disillusionment or disappointment in my environment."

Another bit of writing found was a prayer for the peace and safety of the United States, written on the back of a New York physician's card. A purse, which contained $14 and Dr. Woodruff's professional cards, was stamped with his name. Other identifying articles were in the pockets, with a bus ticket stub which indicated that Dr. Woodruff had left St. Louis soon after he departed from the hospital, ostensibly to attend a lecture at Barnes Hospital. He did not arrive at Barnes.

Why he went to St. James is not known. A former associate in internship at City Hospital came from that town. The town marshal yesterday recognized Dr. Woodruff's picture as that of a young man whom he had seen on the streets one evening about New Year's day. How he went to the scene of his death is not known. The original position of the body appeared to have been at the base of a tree trunk.

Dr. Woodruff attended Dartmouth College and Harvard Medical School, and served as interne in Massachusetts Eye, and Ear Infirmary, Boston, and in a hospital in St. Paul, before coming to St. Louis. He is survived by his parents, three brothers, of whom two are physicians, and a sister, all living in Joliet.

CUMMINGS ADVIS
TRUST LAW RE
President Roosevelt
Public Attorney-General
Report on Subject

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 28—President Roosevelt announced yesterday at a press conference that he has appointed a committee to study the anti-trust laws and to recommend an amendment to them.

Recent investigations, said, indicated that the steel industry had been壻ed by steel companies had been壻ed, Cummings said, was insufficient evidence for a corresponding investigation by the Department of Justice. The question is presented as to whether the industry can afford to leave the market of a vital economic power sustained," Cummings said.

Complaints of collusion by steel companies had been filed, Cummings said, was insufficient evidence for a corresponding investigation by the Department. He suggested that the matter be handled by the Trade Commission, which has "cease and desist" orders by the courts.

Identical steel bids on projects, called to the Department's attention by the Interior, were likely to be the basis point prices, Cummings contended.

This system, long used in the steel industry, not only manufacturers who utilize the consumers who are it, but it also presents social questions due to the fact that communities as well have been located and with reference to the picture developed by this system report declared.

Under point system, bidders

Cummings contended that the economy of the courts is to the handling of the economic factors necessary.

CUMMINGS ADVISES TRUST LAW REVISION

President Roosevelt Makes Public Attorney-General's Report on Subject.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Roosevelt announced at his press conference yesterday a report by Attorney-General Cummings that the time had come to revise the anti-trust laws. Cummings recommended a committee appointed to study the desirability of amendment to improve enforcement.

Recent investigations, Cummings said, indicated that the anti-trust laws had weaknesses which should be corrected.

"In the face of the present tendency to increase prices and a necessity for a corresponding increase in the vigilance of the Department of Justice, the question is forcibly presented as to whether the country can afford to leave the enforcement of a vital economic policy so poorly sustained," Cummings reported.

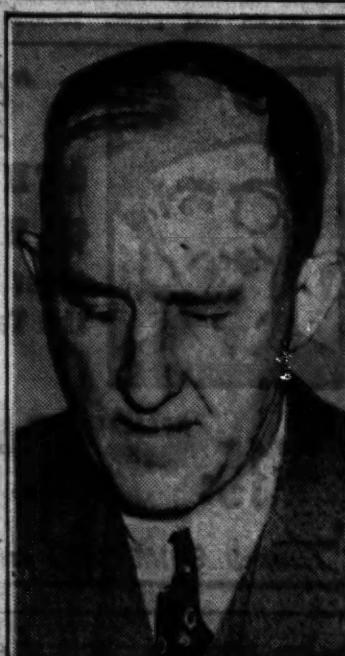

Complaints of collusive bidding by steel companies had been investigated, Cummings said, but there was insufficient evidence to warrant prosecution by the Justice Department. He suggested that the matter be handled by the Federal Trade Commission, which can issue "cease and desist" orders enforceable by the courts.

Mentioned steel bids on P. W. A projects, called to the Justice Department's attention by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, were due partly to the basing point system of prices, Cummings contended.

This system, long used in the steel industry, not only affects the manufacturers who utilize it and the consumers who are subject to it, but it also presents economic and social questions due to the fact that communities as well as plants have been located and developed with reference to the price structure developed by this system," his report declared. Under the basing point system, bidders figure the freight on any shipment from the basing point to the purchaser, regardless of where the shipment actually originates.

Cummings contended "the machinery of the courts is not geared to the handling of the social and economic factors necessarily involved" in the questions he investigated.

BLIND CHIEF JUSTICE

PAUL FARTHING, Illinois Supreme Court justice, who will become chief justice in June under the court's rotation system. He is 50 years old and lives in East St. Louis.

Roosevelt alluded at the conference to securities speculation. When a reporter asked if his recent warning to Government employees against stock gambling would apply also to the general public, he said he had been saying that since 1927.

In New York State, he said, there was a community of 125 families, of whom 105 went into the market on margin and only one person—the baggage boy at the depot—came out of the crash all right. That young man's bride-to-be got him to put his $1500 in a home, the President added.

A. F. L. CAMPAIGN TO UNIONIZE CHICAGO HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES

CHICAGO, April 28.—E. L. Erickson, Augustana Hospital superintendent, said today that A. F. L. union organizers had begun a campaign among the 20,000 non-professional employees of Chicago hospitals.

He said 96 per cent of the Augustana employees—attendants, orderlies, florists, elevator operators, maid and kitchen help—had signed up.

The Grant and St. Joseph hospitals were among other institutions reported affected.

Erickson said 100 of his employees had demanded more pay, fewer working hours a week, vacations with pay, and recognition of the union.

Girl, 14, Held for Murder in Boy's Death

STELLA STEVENS.

Assistant Director of Air Bureau.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Secretary of Commerce Roper announced today the appointment of Howard F. Rough of Berkeley, Calif., as assistant director of the Bureau of Air Commerce. Rough, a former department inspector and supervising aeronautical inspector, will succeed Maj. R. W. Schroeder, who resigned, effective July 1, to become vice-president in charge of operations of United Air Lines.

HEARING FOR GIRL SATURDAY IN 'POSTOFFICE' GAME KILLING

Murder Warrant Against Her for Death of Boy at Grayson, Ky.

By the Associated Press.

GRAYSON, Ky., April 28.—A preliminary hearing will be held Saturday for Stella Stevens, 14-year-old farm girl who is charged with the killing of a boy with whom she was playing "postoffice" last Wednesday night, Coroner C. W. Henderson said yesterday.

Henderson swore out a murder warrant against the girl because, he said, "public sentiment demanded it." Meanwhile, Hayden Romines, 25, remained in jail here as a material witness. Authorities said Romines denied he was in the darkened bedroom in the Stevens home when a boy known as Jimmy Scott, about 16, was shot to death. Romines said he was in the kitchen and that when he heard a shot in the adjoining room he ran in and saw the boy standing with his hand against his chest. Romines was quoted as saying Miss Stevens screamed that she "didn't know the gun was loaded."

The girl had testified all three had their hands on a revolver. She said it was she who fired the weapon, however. The victim has not been identified. He was apparently homeless.

GAS AGAIN USED ON PICKETS AT TRENTON, N. J., PLANT

Policemen Say They Were Stood When Escorting Girl From Thermoid Factory.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., April 28.—Tear gas was used again last night on strike pickets at the Thermoid Co. plant in Hamilton Township, when three policemen escorted a girl worker from the plant where 300 employees are living on food sent through CIO picket lines on order of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman.

The three policemen said one of them had been hit in the back with a stone and that they used the gas to scatter the pickets.

Sheriff Herbert W. Bradley read the riot act to the pickets last night, telling them the situation had reached a point where he had no choice. He appealed to the strikers to adjust their differences privately.

State police ordered all available men in Central Jersey sub-stations to gather at the Hightstown Barracks last night, when the Sheriff received a report of trouble at the plant. The men were returned to their own stations a short time later, when the demonstrators became quiet.

OKLAHOMA CONVICTS ADMIT LEAVING PRISON CAMP TO ROB

They Would Return in Time for Morning Bell Call; 10 Trustees Arrested.

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., April 28.—How convicts slipped away from a State prison camp at night to rob and pillage in nearby towns and cities, returning to prison in the morning was told with the arrest of 10 convicts yesterday.

The arrests were made at the Taft State prison, 10 miles west of Muskogee. Sheriff Jordan said three of the convicts admitted robbing a filling station here Saturday night and again Monday night.

He said they told him they hired Negroes at Taft to drive them to Muskogee for the robberies. The night's work completed, they said, they returned to camp before the morning call.

"We found two shotguns and a pistol at the house occupied by the convicts," Jordan said. "The 10 men, all trustees, were at the house alone. Their guard was at a cafe in Taft."

Billy Sunday Estate Settled.

Measure Puts Sales to Belligerents on Cash and Carry Basis.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senate and House conferees reached an agreement yesterday on a permanent neutrality bill. They hope to get the bill on the statute books by Saturday when the temporary neutrality law expires.

Leaders planned to seek approval of the conference agreement in both houses tomorrow. Even if no serious opposition develops, the bill must be sent to President Roosevelt by airplane to obtain his signature in time. He is heading for a fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico.

The conference agreement requires that sales to belligerents be on a "cash and carry" basis. The "cash and carry" policy means that belligerents can obtain no credit for purchases made in this country and must haul the goods bought on foreign ships or transfer title to foreign hands before shipment.

Under the bill, Americans are prohibited from traveling on belligerent ships and American vessels trading with belligerents could not be armed. Gen. Stayton to Inspect Battery A. Brigadier-General Edward M. Stayton, commanding General of the Missouri National Guard, will conduct an inspection of Battery A, 128th Field Artillery, Tuesday night, at its armory, Grand boulevard and Hickory street. Gen. Stayton will address the members of the battery. The public is invited to the ceremony, beginning at 8 p.m.

PRIEST ASKS FOR FUNDS TO REPLACE OLD CHURCH

St. Mary and Joseph Condemned As Unsafe After 75 Years of Service.

An appeal for funds to replace the 75-year-old St. Mary and Joseph Church, Holly Hills boulevard and Minnesota avenue, which was condemned by the city as unsafe last February, has been made by the Rev. George Keating, pastor.

In a newspaper advertisement today, Father Keating points out that, for the first time in 118 years, parishes are without a suitable place of worship and, due to the smallness of their numbers, are unable to build a new church without outside help.

"All those who have once lived in this parish, or who have early memories associated with it, and all others whose generosity might be touched by this appeal, are asked to send donations," the advertisement states.

Services recently have been held in the auditorium of the modern parish school next door. The church is a landmark in South St. Louis, standing on a bluff overlooking Broadway and the Mississippi River.

The parish, founded in 1787, is one of the oldest in the city and at one time served also Catholics in Chicago.

EX-NURSE AND HUSBAND HELD IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Victim Said to Have Died After Illegal Operation; Names of Other Girls Found.

By the Associated Press.

WAVONGA, Okla., April 28.—A murder charge was filed yesterday against John Moore, Longdale (Okla.) farmer, and his wife, a former nurse, following the death of Miss Merle Williams, 21 years old, of Clinton, in a Clinton hospital Saturday.

Authorities said an autopsy, performed at the request of relatives, indicated the woman died from an illegal operation.

A search of the Moore home at Longdale disclosed records and correspondence bearing the names of many girls in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas.

"Letters to the Moores showed how the place was advertised by word of mouth from one girl to another," said an official.

MISSOURI HOUSE VOTES $250,000 FOR RELIEF

Resolution for Emergency Appropriation for May Now Goes to Senate.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—A resolution setting aside an emergency appropriation of $250,000 for unemployment relief in Missouri during May, and $60,000 for relief administrative expenses in March,
April and May, was adopted today by the House, by a vote of 50 to 26.
The resolution now goes to the Senate for concurrence.

A squabble developed over attempts to reduce the allowance for administrative expenses, but House leaders succeeded in keeping the allowance at $20,000 a month, by a close vote on two amendments.

The House defeated amendments offered by Representative Shockley of Wayne County, which would have cut the administration allowance to $5000 a month, and by Representative Caldwell of Hall's Grove, placing the allowance at $1000 a month.

Shockley said the administrative expenses for the office of Wallace Crossey, State relief director, were insufficient, and that most of the sets of actual administration were being paid by the counties.

Relief requirements for May have been estimated by Crossey at $350,- 000. However, the resolution calls for only $250,000 as the relief director has on hand a balance of approximately $100,000 from a previous appropriation.

Of the $350,000 for May, St. Louis will receive one-third or about $117,- 00 under Crossey's present plans.

The Legislature previously had stepped two resolutions for relief funds, setting aside a total of $1,- 00,000 for January, February, March and April. Passage of these resolutions, which are not actual appropriation measures, has been necessary pending passage by the Legislature of a regular appropriation bill for relief funds for the financial period of 1937 and 1938.

The amounts already set aside by resolution will be deducted from whatever appropriation is finally passed for relief.

So far the relief appropriation bill, now carrying a tentative figure of $10,000,000 for the two years,
has not been brought out of the House Appropriations Committee.

GOLD TRAIN CATCHES AFIRE

Stops in Ohio Town While Blaze Is Extinguished.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., April 28.—Firemen learned today they had extinguished a blaze aboard a train bearing tons of gold.

The train, rerouted because of high water along the Ohio River, was halted here late last night on its way to Fort Knox, Ky., and firemen were called to extinguish a blaze in the dining car. Six of the 10 coaches were loaded with gold.
Armed guards surrounded the train while firemen put out the blaze.
There was little damage.

So far the relief appropriation bill, now carrying a tentative figure of $10,000,000 for the two years,
has not been brought out of the House Appropriations Committee.

AUTO UNION CALLS ON CIO TO ORGANIZE BY STATES

Says Co-ordination Is Needed to Offset Expulsion by A. F. of L. Bodies.

DETROIT, April 28.—The national executive board of the United Automobile Workers of America adopted yesterday a resolution calling for the establishment of city general bodies and State labor federations of affiliates of the Com-mities for Industrial Organization. The resolution said: "The American Federation of Labor has assumed bureaucratic control of state federations and city central bodies to the extent of ordering the expulsion of the UAWA and other CIO local unions."

"There is a great need for co-ordinating the forces of the CIO in order to organize the unorganized," it stated, adding, "the UAWA, now one of the largest international unions affiliated with the CIO, must take a leading part in co-ordinating these forces."

REGISTRATION BILL FOR ST. LOUIS TO BE REPORTED OUT

Schechter of House Committee Won't Say Whether It Will Be Mayor's or a New One.

PROPOSAL DORMANT FOR TWO MONTHS

Substitute Lacking Teeth of Present Measure Likely to Be Approved by City Delegation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—After a delay of nearly two and a half months, it now appears that a St. Louis permanent registration bill will be reported favorably by the House Committee on Elections. Representative Maurice Schechter, who has been handling the comprehensive St. Louis registration measure drafted by Mayor Dickmann's Citizens' Advisory Committee, said yesterday he was virtually certain that a permanent registration bill for St. Louis would be placed before the House, probably by tomorrow.

He said he was unable to say whether the bill to be reported will be an amended form of the Mayor's proposal or a less stringent plan based on the Kansas City permanent registration bill, which was reported favorably to the House yesterday and ordered referred today. He said the differences within the St. Louis delegation of Representatives over the permanent registration question would be settled and that the House was certain to pass any bill approved by the St. Louis members.

TOO MANY TEETH IN MAYOR'S BILL.

It is doubtful, however, that any registration bill applying to St. Louis, if reported, will even remotely resemble the Mayor's bill. That measure, written after an exhaustive study of permanent registration systems in other cities, possesses "too many teeth" to be acceptable to the St. Louis group in the House, even though 14 of the city's 19 Representatives endorsed its introduction. The Mayor's bill has been pigeon-holed in the House Elections Committee since Feb. 16.

The decision to go ahead with some sort of a permanent registration plan for St. Louis was reached shortly after Boss Tom Pendergast announced he wanted a modified system in Kansas City. The St. Louis members, who have been under heavy fire for their failure to advance the St. Louis bill, saw some relief in the Kansas City measure, concluding that a plan of permanent registration approved by the Kansas City Democratic machine could not be so objectionable to them.

At a hurriedly called meeting of the Elections Committee Monday night five St. Louis Representatives temporarily blocked a report on the Kansas City measure so that they could study the bill with a view of making it also applicable to St. Louis. The St. Louisans withdrew their demands for a delay on that bill yesterday and it was reported to the House.

JIMMY MILLER IN CAPITAL.

Jimmy Miller, Fourth Ward Democratic boss, and Tom Quinn, Democratic City Committeeman from the Eighteenth Ward, came here yesterday. A member of the House close to them in political life said they had not come because of the permanent registration situation, but added they were not opposed to a "good" registration plan.

ROBERT E. HANNEGAN, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and James A. Waechter, former chairman of the St. Louis Election Board, were here last night, but not on the registration bill. Hannegan said, Hannegan, who was a member of the Mayor's committee which recommended the pending bill, said he still favored passage of that measure in its present form. He said he had not been advised of the plan to bring out a new bill for St. Louis.

The new St. Louis bill, if it reaches the floor, will probably provide for a simple permanent registration system to operate under the city's present election machinery. A plan to put St. Louis under the Kansas City bill is also being considered, but it is thought that this course will not be adopted, as the St. Louis Representatives do not want to be in a position of lamely following the Kansas City proposal.

OBJECTION TO THE KANSAS CITY BILL.

Objecting to the Kansas City bill, Dr. J. A. Gray, Republican Representative of Atchison County, charged today it was weak and would be ineffective in curbing the "notorious Kansas City election frauds." He particularly opposed the bill because it contained no provision requiring the signature of voters for comparison purposes at the time of balloting.

T. J. Pendergast says he wants a good registration bill and let's give him one," Dr. Gray said. "This bill is a travesty on justice and it would be a disgrace for the House to pass such a plan."

MISSOURI P.E.O. ELECTION.

JOPLIN, Mo., April 28.—Mrs. Margaret W. Hillyard of St. Joseph was elected president of the Missouri State P.E.O. to succeed Miss Florence Turner Porter at a session of the forty-fourth annual convention last night. Miss Catharine Drain of Shelbyville was elected first vice-president, Mrs. Hazel Collett of Jefferson City, second vice-president; Mrs. R. E. Elliott of Joplin, recording secretary, and Mrs. Bertha M. Hanley of Rolla, State organizer.

registration question would be settled and that the House was certain to pass any bill approved by the St. Louis members.

TOO MANY TEETH IN MAYOR'S BILL.

It is doubtful, however, that any registration bill applying to St. Louis, if reported, will even remotely resemble the Mayor's bill. That measure, written after an exhaustive study of permanent registration systems in other cities, possesses "too many teeth" to be acceptable to the St. Louis group in the House, even though 14 of the city's 19 Representatives endorsed its introduction. The Mayor's bill has been pigeon-holed in the House Elections Committee since Feb. 16.

The decision to go ahead with some sort of a permanent registration plan for St. Louis was reached shortly after Boss Tom Pendergast announced he wanted a modified system in Kansas City. The St. Louis members, who have been under heavy fire for their failure to advance the St. Louis bill, saw some relief in the Kansas City measure, concluding that a plan of permanent registration approved by the Kansas City Democratic machine could not be so objectionable to them.

At a hurriedly called meeting of the Elections Committee Monday night five St. Louis Representatives temporarily blocked a report on the Kansas City measure so that they could study the bill with a view of making it also applicable to St. Louis. The St. Louisans withdrew their demands for a delay on that bill yesterday and it was reported to the House.

JIMMY MILLER IN CAPITAL.

Jimmy Miller, Fourth Ward Democratic boss, and Tom Quinn, Democratic City Committeeman from the Eighteenth Ward, came here yesterday. A member of the House close to them in political life said they had not come because of the permanent registration situation, but added they were not opposed to a "good" registration plan.

ROBERT E. HANNEGAN, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and James A. Waechter, former chairman of the St. Louis Election Board, were here last night, but not on the registration bill. Hannegan said, Hannegan, who was a member of the Mayor's committee which recommended the pending bill, said he still favored passage of that measure in its present form. He said he had not been advised of the plan to bring out a new bill for St. Louis.

The new St. Louis bill, if it reaches the floor, will probably provide for a simple permanent registration system to operate under the city's present election machinery. A plan to put St. Louis under the Kansas City bill is also being considered, but it is thought that this course will not be adopted, as the St. Louis Representatives do not want to be in a position of lamely following the Kansas City proposal.

OBJECTION TO THE KANSAS CITY BILL.

Objecting to the Kansas City bill, Dr. J. A. Gray, Republican Representative of Atchison County, charged today it was weak and would be ineffective in curbing the "notorious Kansas City election frauds." He particularly opposed the bill because it contained no provision requiring the signature of voters for comparison purposes at the time of balloting.

T. J. Pendergast says he wants a good registration bill and let's give him one," Dr. Gray said. "This bill is a travesty on justice and it would be a disgrace for the House to pass such a plan."

SWINDLES MAN OF LIFE SAVINGS; GETS 3 YEARS

Convict Admits $5600 Fraud — Brought From Prison for Sentence.

Mike Chaykowski, one of three men charged with mail fraud in swindling Paul Humenik, a Ziegler (Ill.) coal miner, of his life savings of $5600, pleaded guilty yesterday and was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge George H. Moore.

The sentence will begin at the conclusion of a five-year term Chaykowski is now serving for a similar fraud in Bay City, Mich. Chaykowski was brought to St. Louis at his request to plead guilty in the Humenik case. One of his accomplices in the frauds, Nicholas Chay, also is serving five years at Leavenworth in the Michigan case.

United States Attorney Harry C. Blanton, who recommended the sentence, told Judge Moore the three defendants conspired to take Humenik's money in 1930 after stealing his bank books from his room in St. Louis. Humenik, who had come to St. Louis looking for work, met the three men and they persuaded him to take a room at their rooming house on Park avenue.

He was then induced to go to Detroit to work for Chay's brother, leaving his personal effects in his room here. Chaykowski then stole Humenik's bank books and went to South Omaha, Neb., where he established himself in Humenik's name and wrote to banks here and in Ziegler, instructing that the deposits forwarded to a bank in South Omaha.

On his return to St. Louis Humenik discovered the frauds and the investigation by Postoffice Inspectors followed. The third participant in the swindle has not been apprehended.

Roy Hamlin Files Petition; Issue Involved Is Mandatory Continuance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—Rehearing of an application for a writ of prohibition against Circuit Judge W. C. Hughes of Mexico, which, among other points, involves the question of whether it is mandatory for a trial judge to continue a case on request of an attorney who is a member of and attending a session of the Legislature, was asked for a petition filed today with the Missouri Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court, which denied the application for a writ last week, granted leave to Representative Roy Hamlin of Hannibal, Democratic majority-floor leader in the House, to file the rehearing petition. The court also issued a stop order to Judge Hughes to take no further action in a contempt proceeding in which Hamlin is counsel, until the Supreme Court disposed of the petition for a rehearing. In denying the writ, the court gave no reason.

Mrs. Mary Ramaesire Says She Advanced Most of Inheritance To Her Husband.

Mrs. Mary Ramaesire, proprietor of "Mary's Dreamland," a cafe and night club at 1727 Park avenue, obtained a divorce today from Mike J. Ramaesire, 3614 Prairie avenue, charging general indignities. She obtained restoration of her former name, Settich.

Mrs. Ramaesire told Circuit Judge David J. Murphy they were married in 1929 and that she left her husband last September because he abused her and went out with other women. She said she inherited the cafe and $18,000 from her former husband, John Settich, and had advanced most of the money to Ramaesire. She did not ask for alimony. Ramaesire filed an answer but did not contest.

ADMINISTRATION SPONSORS BILL TO CUT COSTS 15 PCT.

Measure Suddenly Offered in House Gives President Discretion, However, on Reductions.

PUBLICANS FORCE NEW DEAL TO ACT

Economy Proposal Drafted by Treasury Group—Effort to Slash Relief to Be Made in Senate.

By MAQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Appropriations Committee has before it today an economy measure which would slash appropriations for the coming fiscal year, beginning July 1, by 15 per cent.

The bill has the support of President Roosevelt, Speaker Bankhead said, and was drafted by experts in the Treasury as the first move being next year's budget somewhat closer to at least a "payman's" solution.

At the request of administration leaders the Treasury has been at work on the measure for some time though this has not been known more than a half dozen persons in. In a surprise move late yesterday Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri introduced the economy proposal, which was originally to have been held until the return of Representative Sam Rayburn, majority floor leader, who has been absent.

Cannon's action was forced by Representative John Taber of New York, ranking minority member of the House Appropriations Committee, who yesterday introduced a resolution calling on President Roosevelt to make good on his economy plan.

Several days ago Taber's resolution calling for a uniform 10 per cent cut in all Government expenditures was voted down by the democratic majority.

At President's Discretion.

The Cannon proposal, which may be attached as an amendment to one of the two appropriation measures to be passed on, Army or Department of Interior, calls for the spending of 15 per cent of all appropriations made for 1938. But the President power to reduce from 1 per cent to the full 15 per cent in his discretion to any of the departments. This, according to Cannon, would permit departments to meet fixed contractual obligations which may not be cut. Cannon, long a member of the appropriations Committee, was cautious in his predictions of the amount that would be saved under the bill. A flat 15 per cent cut, which is not a probability nor even possibility, would save more than $1 billion dollars.

Recently the Treasury predicted a deficit of $418,000,000 in the fiscal year of 1938. In his original budget message the President promised a "payman's balanced budget"—that income would be sufficient to meet outgo. This was true when it became apparent that revenues from taxes would fall far below original estimates. The Cannon proposal is the first move in direction of a "payman's balance."

Trying to Cut Relief Fund.

At the same time in the Senate administration leaders Vice-President Garner and Senator James C. Polk of North Carolina were trying to bring about a cut in the $1,000,000 recommended for relief in the fiscal year of 1938. It was predicted that the relief bill would come from the Senate Appropriations Committee with a cut in the amount asked by the White House and that the Senate would sustain the action of the committee. Under Taber's economy proposal the Government would have been required to cut the interest service on the public debt 10 per cent, thus reducing 10 per cent of Government obligations. Likewise it would have required a 10 per cent cut in pensions to war veterans who could not have been done without passage of a law that a Congress highly sensitive to the views of the veteran's lobbies would never have approved. Democratic leaders predicted today that Republicans would be compelled to accept the Cannon proposal.

Not Opposed to Economy.

There is a considerable bloc in the House firmly opposed to any economy move, but it is believed that the administration will be able to put through its measure now being prepared without serious difficulty.

Already there is evidence of the economy drive on the part of the administration in the order being sent out by the Public Works Administration, drastically reducing what is to be allocated by the Government for P.W.A. The Government has put

Relief Cases in St. Louis Decline 37 Pct. in Year but No One Knows How Many are Still Unemployed

21,250 Heads of Families Dependent on W.P.A., 1500 on C.C.C. Rolls Add to Confusion—State and City Reports Compared.

Employment opportunities in industry have expanded, and relief rolls have declined, in St. Louis and Missouri during the last year, but the relief burden remains heavy and no one knows how many are now unemployed.

There are still more than 11,000 families and single persons receiving help from the St. Louis Relief Administration; and 21,250 heads of families in St. Louis and the county are dependent for employment on the Works Progress Administration. In addition, about 1500 St. Louis youths in Civilian Conservation Corps camps are sending $25 of their $30 monthly wage back to their parents to keep them off the relief rolls, and 2750 youths in the city and county are receiving help from the National Youth Administration. Direct relief in the county, which has been limited by lack of funds, is being extended to 520 families, and 244 single persons.

In the State as a whole, including St. Louis, there are about 53,000 families and individuals on the relief rolls and 79,000 family heads working for the W.P.A. The State has 14,000 youths in CCC camps, and 9400 receiving help from the N.Y.A.

Relief Decline of 37 Pct.

The number of relief cases in St. Louis now represents a decline of 37 per cent in the past year, and there are 23 per cent fewer persons on the W.P.A. payroll than a year ago. In the State as a whole, the relief roll is 26 per cent smaller than it was a year ago, and the W.P.A. force is 28 per cent smaller.

The principal agency in Missouri for aiding those without work to find it, the Missouri State Employment Service, reports that it now has on file the applications of 80,787 persons actively seeking employment. Of these, 37,400 are in St. Louis. The others are registered in bureaus of the employment service at Kansas City, Jefferson City, St. Joseph and Springfield.

The "active" file of the employment service is confined to applications which have been submitted or renewed within 60 days. It includes also the applications of those with W.P.A. jobs. A year ago about 75,000 applications were in the active file of the St. Louis bureau, about twice as many as at present. For the whole State the total a year ago was 128,000, so the present figure represents a decline of about 40 per cent.

It cannot be assumed, however, that all those who were registered with the employment service a year ago and are not now listed have found jobs. Although the active file of the St. Louis bureau a year ago was 27,600 larger than it is at present, in all 1938 the bureau filled but 10,312 jobs, and about half of these were temporary.

Jobs Found for 3194.

During the first three months of this year, the St. Louis bureau, at 3000 Locust street, found jobs for 3194 persons, the total falling short of one job for every 10 applicants, and 40 per cent of the jobs filled were temporary. Yet the record is an improvement over the first quarter of last year, when jobs were found for 1733, and 59 per cent were temporary.

Despite the excess of applicants over available jobs three times out of 10 when an employer notifies the bureau of a job opening, the principal agency in the State is still able to pass on, Army or Department of Interior, calls for the spending of 15 per cent of all appropriations made for 1938. But the President power to reduce from 1 per cent to the full 15 per cent in his discretion to any of the departments. This, according to Cannon, would permit departments to meet fixed contractual obligations which may not be cut. Cannon, long a member of the appropriations Committee, was cautious in his predictions of the amount that would be saved under the bill. A flat 15 per cent cut, which is not a probability nor even possibility, would save more than $1 billion dollars.

Recently the Treasury predicted a deficit of $418,000,000 in the fiscal year of 1938. In his original budget message the President promised a "payman's balanced budget"—that income would be sufficient to meet outgo. This was true when it became apparent that revenues from taxes would fall far below original estimates. The Cannon proposal is the first move in direction of a "payman's balance."

Trying to Cut Relief Fund.

At the same time in the Senate administration leaders Vice-President Garner and Senator James C. Polk of North Carolina were trying to bring about a cut in the $1,000,000 recommended for relief in the fiscal year of 1938. It was predicted that the relief bill would come from the Senate Appropriations Committee with a cut in the amount asked by the White House and that the Senate would sustain the action of the committee. Under Taber's economy proposal the Government would have been required to cut the interest service on the public debt 10 per cent, thus reducing 10 per cent of Government obligations. Likewise it would have required a 10 per cent cut in pensions to war veterans who could not have been done without passage of a law that a Congress highly sensitive to the views of the veteran's lobbies would never have approved. Democratic leaders predicted today that Republicans would be compelled to accept the Cannon proposal.

Not Opposed to Economy.

There is a considerable bloc in the House firmly opposed to any economy move, but it is believed that the administration will be able to put through its measure now being prepared without serious difficulty.

Already there is evidence of the economy drive on the part of the administration in the order being sent out by the Public Works Administration, drastically reducing what is to be allocated by the Government for P.W.A. The Government has put Aks German Department of Justice to Consider His Youth and Previous Clear Record.

BERLIN, April 28.—Supporting the plea for clemency made by the American Embassy to the Foreign Office on behalf of Helmuth Hirsch, 21-year-old American citizen under sentence of death for high treason, Raymond H. Geist, American Consul, called at the Ministry of Justice yesterday.

The Consul based his plea on Hirsch's youth and the good reputation he enjoyed among fellow students at the University of Prague. He also emphasized that he had no previous police record.

It is understood that the Ministry of Justice, after examining proofs of Hirsch's American citizenship and the plea for clemency, will refer the case to the Foreign Office. After examination there the case will be submitted by the Ministry of Justice to Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

HOUSE COMMITTEE CUTS DEFICIENCY BILL $18,828,600

Largest Slash in Budget Bureau Figures Is $15,000,000 to Refund Processing Taxes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The House Appropriations Committee cut $18,828,605 today from the Budget Bureau's estimate for the second deficiency appropriation bill were: 11 of 180 "white-collar" jobs for men; 11 of 175 office, clerical and professional jobs for women; 121 of 448 jobs in domestic service; 284 of 459 jobs for skilled craftsmen; 50 of 172 jobs for semi-skilled laborers; 37 of 265 jobs for common laborers and seven of 128 jobs for women in factories.

Women comprise 27 per cent, and men 73 per cent of those listed by the bureau as active applicants for work.

C. R. Kammerer, manager of the bureau, told the Post-Dispatch that it was becoming increasingly difficult to find among job applicants those with the particular skills or experience required when jobs are available. This, he said, was especially true in the skilled trades, where apprentices have not been trained during the years of depression.

Kammerer estimates, on the basis of sample tests made at random in recent months, that about half of those listed by the bureau as active applicants for jobs, and not on the W.P.A. payroll, already have employment of some kind. Such work is usually not the sort to which the applicants are accustomed, and the earnings are not such as would induce them to keep present jobs if other opportunities were open to them.

Of those registered here, 32 per cent are Negroes, most of whom are classed as common laborers. Negroes, who constitute about 11 per cent of the city's population, comprise 44 per cent of the total on the relief rolls.

In contrast with the Employment Bureau's difficulty in filling jobs which call for particular skills or training are the reports of the American Federation of Labor on employment conditions in St. Louis industries where it has affiliated unions.

11 Per Cent Unemployed.

The most recent report, for the first half of March, states that 11 per cent of the membership of unions from which information was obtained were unemployed and 14 per cent were working part time. This report was based on information received from 142 of the 250 local unions affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Union.

Building trades made the poorest showing in this report, with 26 per cent of the membership unemployed, and 27 per cent working part time. Other classifications mentioned in the report were: Service trades, 3 per cent unemployed, 18 per cent part time; railroad roads, 6 per cent unemployed, 7 per cent part time; teamsters, 3 per cent unemployed, 10 per cent part time; breweries, 8 per cent unemployed, 4 per cent part time; metal, 11 per cent unemployed, 21 per cent part time; clothing, 20 per cent unemployed, 7 per cent part time; manufacturing, 19 per cent unemployed, 15 per cent part time, and printing, 6 per cent unemployed, 22 per cent part time.

Requests Rejected.

The committee rejected requests for $447,160 for further investigation of dams on the Upper Tennessee at Watts Bar and Coulter Shoals and $382,450 for preliminary investigation of possible sites for dams and reservoirs on the major tributaries of the Tennessee.

Of the total T.V.A. allocation, $35,589,987 would be available for projects under construction, including the Guntersville dam and reservoir in Alabama; Hiwassee dam and reservoir in North Carolina and the Pickwick landing and Chickamauga dams and reservoirs in Tennessee.

For electrical plant and equipment, the committee recommended $5,100,000 to provide for additional transmission lines, sub-stations and investment in distribution properties.

The committee included $3,445,000 for the T.V.A. soil conservation and fertilizer program and $20,734 for the national defense phase of its work.

Other items in the bill include $15,000,000 for refunds and payments of processing taxes—50 per cent less than the budget bureau requested; $1,984,669 for the Interior Department; $17,247,269 for the Treasury and $1,001,256 for the War Department.

When the bill was called up for debate, Representative Woodrum of Virginia, in charge of the measure, said he wished to repeat the "absolute necessity of putting the brakes on public expenditures, certainly where it may be done with logic and sanity. Cutting Government expenditures," he said, "is an easy thing to talk about and a hard thing to accomplish."

An address, prepared for delivery by George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, and chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, was read by D. B. Robinson, president, Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

It is necessary for management to adopt a more enlightened attitude toward employees' representatives, "just as it is imperative that the leadership of labor recognize its responsibilities toward industry," the message said.

Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank, New York, told conferees encouraging developments made the railroad situation the "best in years."

Afterward, Mgr. O'Reilly said he found the Pope "looking surprisingly well," considering slight heart attack yesterday.

NEW COMMISSAR PURGING SOVIET SECRET POLICE

Purpose Is to Offset Menaces of Fascism and Trotskyism—Nature of Changes Uncertain.

Special Cable.

MOSCOW, April 28.—The Communist party's latest attempt to cleanse itself, started in the recent Trotskyist trials and speeded by the exhortation of Josef V. Stalin to Bolsheviks not to let success make them soft, has developed in the last few days into a wholesale housecleaning in the ranks of the Commissariat of Internal Affairs, formerly the OGPU (secret political police).

There is no official confirmation of any arrests, but it is generally thought that the department, once headed by Henry V. Yagoda, recently arrested and dismissed as Commissar of Posts and Telegraphs, is being drastically purged by the new Commissar, Nikolai I. Yezhov.

The recent popularization of self-criticism has filled Moscow with reports of both peccadilloes and crimes of Soviet leaders and it is hard to distinguish between them. Demotions and transfers are easily distorted by gossip here and abroad into arrests and executions. Foreign reports of the execution of Mme. Gregory Platakov, wife of the executed Trotskyist plotter, and of the suicide of Mme. Paul Postishov, wife of the demoted secretary of the Komsomol party committee, and of Mme. Yagoda were denied officially here last night.

However, it is fairly certain that the Lubianka-Moscow headquarters of the secret police is now undergoing the cleansing which all recent party pronouncements have termed necessary to offset the twin menaces of Fascism and Trotskyism. The nature of the changes is uncertain, but it is probable that the trend is along the line started three years ago with increasing subservience of the secret police to VIENNA, April 28.—Police announced today that a 21-year-old shoemaker employed by the army had confessed killing Ingrid Wiengreen, 28-year-old daughter of Gustavo Wiengreen, Paraguayan Minister to Austria. Authorities said robbery was the motive for the shooting.

The Circuit Attorney and the River-Front Bond Frauds.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR correspondent, "Don't Give Up the Ship," seems to me to be doing that very thing when he advises the Circuit Attorney to transfer his energies from the river-front bond election to the recent primary. Prosecution of the primary frauds is important, but prosecution and punishment of the crooks who stole the river-front election for political purposes, and in the name of the great Thomas Jefferson, is a necessity.

"Don't Give Up" says it is not likely the Supreme Court will grant a writ of certiorari and review the latest decision in the Circuit Court here refusing a subpoena for the ballot boxes. I do not pretend to know what is in the Supreme Court's mind, but the Circuit Attorney knows what is in the law. It is discretionary with the court to grant or refuse the writ. The Circuit Attorney has no discretion in the matter. He must avail himself of every opportunity to perform his difficult duty, difficult because of the barrier which the corrupt relationship between politics and justice puts in his way.

"Don't Give Up" may know what is in the mind of the next Circuit Judge who may be applied to by the Circuit Attorney for a subpoena, and may be revealing what is there when he says an application presented to any of the other Judges of the criminal courts will almost certainly be denied; this writer does not pretend to know. But the Circuit Attorney has shown by his course thus far that here, too, he knows what is in the law. There he finds that the ruling of the Judge is discretionary. He may grant or deny the subpoena. This was proved ironically by the first Judge applied to. He ruled both ways; first he granted the subpoena, next he withdrew the grant.

So the case is not yet foreclosed against the Circuit Attorney in the Circuit Court. And outside of the court, he probably knows of another possibility. The ballots which he needs to conduct the grand jury investigation of the river-front election are in the custody of the Board of Election Commissioners. They still exist, instead of having been destroyed a year after the election as the law prescribes, only because the Circuit Attorney, in a note to the chairman of the board, requested that they be preserved. This was no court order. It is conceivable that the estimable members of the Board of Election Commissioners, who, like all the town, are conversant with the fight which the Circuit Attorney is making for clean elections and the desperate resistance he is encountering, would honor his request to turn the ballots over to the grand jury as their predecessors honored his request to preserve them for that purpose. What About Smokeless Engines?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ with interest of the renovating of the Union Station. Everyone, I am sure, approves this work, but I cannot help wondering how it is that the Terminal Railroad Association finds the money for this job but does not even as much as mention providing electric or oil-burning engines. Nor do the city authorities do anything about it.

A Teacher Opposes Tax Exemption.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WISH to take exception to the recent letter by one of my colleagues and to speak in defense of your cartoon condemning the system of special privileges of tax exemption for municipal, state and Federal employees. I cannot understand why teachers, who should have the highest ideals of democracy and justice, would seek for themselves such privileges as exemption from income taxes and pensions, when these rights are denied to others.

I dislike the constant complaint of teachers about being underpaid. We teachers of St. Louis are well paid and have a life tenure which many other school systems do not provide. The salary of rural teachers is another matter; but the best of rural teachers gravitate to the more lucrative city positions.

Most of the teachers I know have cars and homes of their own. Practically all of them, unmarried as well as married, support several dependents or assist impoverished relatives, and most of them travel quite extensively. Those who know how to plan their lives usually manage to put aside some income insurance for their old age. Few of us could earn more money in any other kind of work; if so, we would all be doing some other kind of work. I know of no teacher who has failed financially when they left teaching.

We have no oath such as the physician's oath of Hippocrates, but I have a faint recollection that when we entered this profession we had not before us high ideals of service rather than promises of monetary gain. I like my job, and I feel that I earn every bit of my salary. I am not at the top of the salary schedule, either; but I am heartily ashamed every time I hear one of my fellow-teachers whining about his pay and advocating for himself special favors.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1937.

U. S. VS. ALUMINUM CO.

The Department of Justice has filed suit in Federal Court in New York City against the Aluminum Co. of America. The basis of the suit is the contention that the company, in which former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon has extensive interests, is violating the anti-trust laws through its monopoly of the aluminum industry. It is charged by the Government that the company is able to fix and has fixed prices which are arbitrary and discriminatory. In support of the complaint that the company is a monopoly, the Department of Justice presents statistics to show that the company and its component parts are producing all the virgin aluminum produced in the United States and selling more than 90 per cent of the aluminum steel and virtually 100 per cent of all aluminum wire, cable and tubing sold.

Although the Roosevelt administration has got around to it belatedly, the prospect is that the country is about to witness the most important anti-trust law violation trial in recent years. There can be no denying that the preparation of the prosecution in such a suit as this one requires a long time. Voluminous statistics must be assembled and studied and the case built up carefully, step by step. But however much certain New Dealers might have enjoyed proceeding against the company dominated by the Melons of Pittsburgh and Washington, they could hardly have done as in the first two or three years of the Roosevelt administration. A suit against the aluminum company at a time when N.R.A. was fostering monopolistic tendencies would have smacked more of politics than of devotion to the Sherman Act.

As the lines of offense and defense are drawn and the probability is that Assistant Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson will do the prosecuting—it is interesting to think back 13 years to the halcyon days of Coolidge and October, 1924. The President from Northampton had been renominated and the campaign was going nicely until a newcomer to the Cabinet, one Harlan F. Stone, of old Amherst days, exploded a bombshell in the calm. The bombshell was the announcement that as Attorney-General he would have the Department of Justice investigate a charge of the Federal Trade Commission to the effect that Secretary Mellon's company was violating the anti-trust laws.

The situation was most embarrassing. At Cabinet meetings Mellon sat at Mr. Coolidge's left, and next to Mellon sat Stone. The desired outward effect of administrative harmony was severely damaged by the spectacle of one ranking member of the official family making ready to proceed against another. What might have happened if Harlan Stone had stayed in the Cabinet is one of the many "ifs" of politics and history. The showdown was averted when 52-year-old Justice Joseph McKenna resigned from the Supreme Court soon afterward and Stone was promptly elevated out of the Cabinet to the bench. Homegrown John Garfield Sargent of Ludlow, Vt., who was appointed to the empty chair, found no reason for proceeding, and a year after the bombshell had burst, the aluminum company had received what amounted to a whitewash.

Much water has run under the bridge since Aluminum Co.'s close call in the Coolidge era. There are new faces in Washington and new hands at the controls. A certain Federal Court in New York City is going to be a center of news in the weeks to come. And then the scene may shift to the Supreme Court of the United States, where the same Harlan F. Stone may again cross trails with Mellon's aluminum.

MISREPRESENTING THE PRODUCT.

It is possible to wish for a reduction in the general bureaucracy in Washington without wanting in any way to cut down the protective work performed by certain individual agencies. The good work of the Federal Trade Commission is a case in point. Evidences of its vigilance in behalf of consumers are constantly in the news. The other day, the commission ordered a Chicago rug company to alter its advertising so as not to give the impression that each customer received rugs made from the old materials which the customer had sent in.

Another recent instance of vigilance against misleading advertising concerns Minnesota and Illinois encyclopedias publishing firms, which have tried to give the impression that their books were being distributed free to a specially selected group of persons, the price to be paid pertaining only to loose-leaf material to be furnished from time to time by the publishers. Not all buyers of the rugs and encyclopedias in question have believed these representations, but there can be no question that many have. Appeals to consumers should be scrupulously honest, and it is reassuring to know that one branch of the Federal Government strives day after day to keep them so.

A Harvard professor tells us that the average man of the thirteenth century had 6500 more chances of dying peacefully in bed than his descendant has today. That pretty well debunks Genghis Khan, the old blow-hard.

THE NEW SENATOR.

The United States Senate has a new member—Hon. William H. Smathers of New Jersey. He takes his seat not because of a special election or appointment to fill a vacancy. He was chosen at the polls nearly six months ago, along with 35 other Senators who have been in their seats since the first of the year. He goes to Washington belatedly because his party had greater need of him these past months in the New Jersey Senate, where control hung by a thread.

After the election last November, New Jersey Republicans had 11 members in the Senate and the Democrats 10, including Mr. Smathers, a holdover. One of the Republicans, however, was William C. Hunt of Cape May, whose highly questionable election was promptly contested as fraudulent. A competent court heard a long and devastating record of corruption and found his "election" so "contaminated with fraud" that he was not entitled to a certificate. Now Mr. Hunt has resigned to save his fellow-Republicans the embarrassment of voting on unseating him.

Meanwhile, Mr. Smathers, although elected to the United States Senate, continued to hold his seat in Trenton on orders from the Tom Pendergast of New Jersey, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. The Democratic hope was that Mr. Hunt would be forced out and that Mr. Smathers' vote would enable the Democrats to get their bills passed. Now Hunt is out and so is Smathers, to leave the Republicans 10 and the Democrats nine and neither party in commanding control, since 11 votes are required to approve bills.

What a comment on party politics the whole shabby thing is! Not since the late Huey Long sat tight in the Governor's chair in Louisiana long after his election to the Senate has a senatorship been so lightly regarded. The affair is all the worse because the seat which Mr. Smathers at last fills was only a few years ago adorned by the statesmanlike Dwight W. Morrow, who stood above all such partisan pettiness.

IT MUST BE DONE.

The recently elected president of the State Historical Society of Missouri, Senator Alvin McReynolds of Carthage, declared in his inaugural address that "Missourians must reorganize their State Government." To the same end he has, as Senator, proposed the creation of a commission to examine the needs of the State and file a report, with such recommendations as the survey warrants. The proposal, as our readers are aware, has in effect been chloroformed by the committee to which it was referred, with every probability that it will die under the anesthetic.

But the idea will not die. It is not a new idea.

It is one of our political paranoias. The purpose it is designed to serve—that of simplifying the tangled affairs in Jefferson City, substituting system for chaos, economy for waste—is too admirable to need debate. But for all the resolution and glowing promise, Governors come and go. Legislatures convene and adjourn, nothing is done, no action is taken, and confusion becomes worse confounded, while the costs of government soar on ever-widening pinions to new heights.

That the costs of our State Government are rapidly getting out of hand needs only to be asserted.

The fault, be it frankly said, is not solely chargeable to our legislators or to the governing persons who constitute our "seat of government." In the name of "Federal aid," the states have been induced to undertake activities by conditional grants that are tantamount to coercion. "Nobles in purpose" as those experiments are, they are piling up such assessments on the taxpayers that the reorganization which Mr. McReynolds has revitalized may no longer be regarded as merely desirable. It is mandatory. It simply must be done.

The solvency of the taxpayer, which after all, is the solvency of the State, compels it.

It may be properly said, in this connection, that Senator McReynolds is no star-eyed reformer. The tinted towers of Utopia have never embellished his horizon. He possesses an unusual quota of that "plain common sense" to which the eminent Dr. John Dewey paid his respects the other day. Mr. McReynolds' equipment includes also a fine professional ability in the law, exceptional knowledge of Missouri, historically and institutionally, a genuine zeal for public service.

The project of reorganizing our State Government is a major effort. It will take time, study, energy, the enthusiasm and determination of thoughtful citizens. The leadership of Mr. McReynolds in this cause is a hopeful omen.

THANKS TO CHARLES LATHROP PACK.

Twenty-five years ago the first week of May, Theodore Roosevelt called Charles Lathrop Pack to the White House to provide expert guidance on forestry problems at a conference of Governors. Mr. Pack's knowledge of national forestry needs impressed the President, who soon afterward named the forester-business man a member of the Conservation Commission, which made the first attack on the problem being created by the wanton wasting of the nation's forest resources. Through the quarter-century which has intervened, this public-spirited citizen has carried on a never-flagging campaign of popular education on forestry needs and opportunities. Now forestry has come into its own in these days of inventory of our national resources, and much credit must go to Charles Lathrop Pack for his pioneering labors in its behalf. Had he done no more than prepare the several editions of his Forestry Primer, now run to 4,400,000 copies, and distribute it to schools, colleges and C.C.C. camps, he would be entitled to the country's thanks. As the first week in May also contains Mr. Pack's eightieth birthday, there is a double reason for saluting his good work at this time.

FLOYD'S FLOOD.

Between the news as written and as broadcast over the air, there is at times, perhaps, only a remote relationship. Such at least is the complaint of a radio script writer who relates a tale of many grievances against Floyd Gibbons for inventing his copy, as he charges, with a color and circumstance ludicrously foreign to the text.

Was Gibbons slogging through the manuscript under the dim, uncertain light of a railroad lantern? He says so, but the outraged reporter insists Gibbons performed under the studio's customary electric bulb.

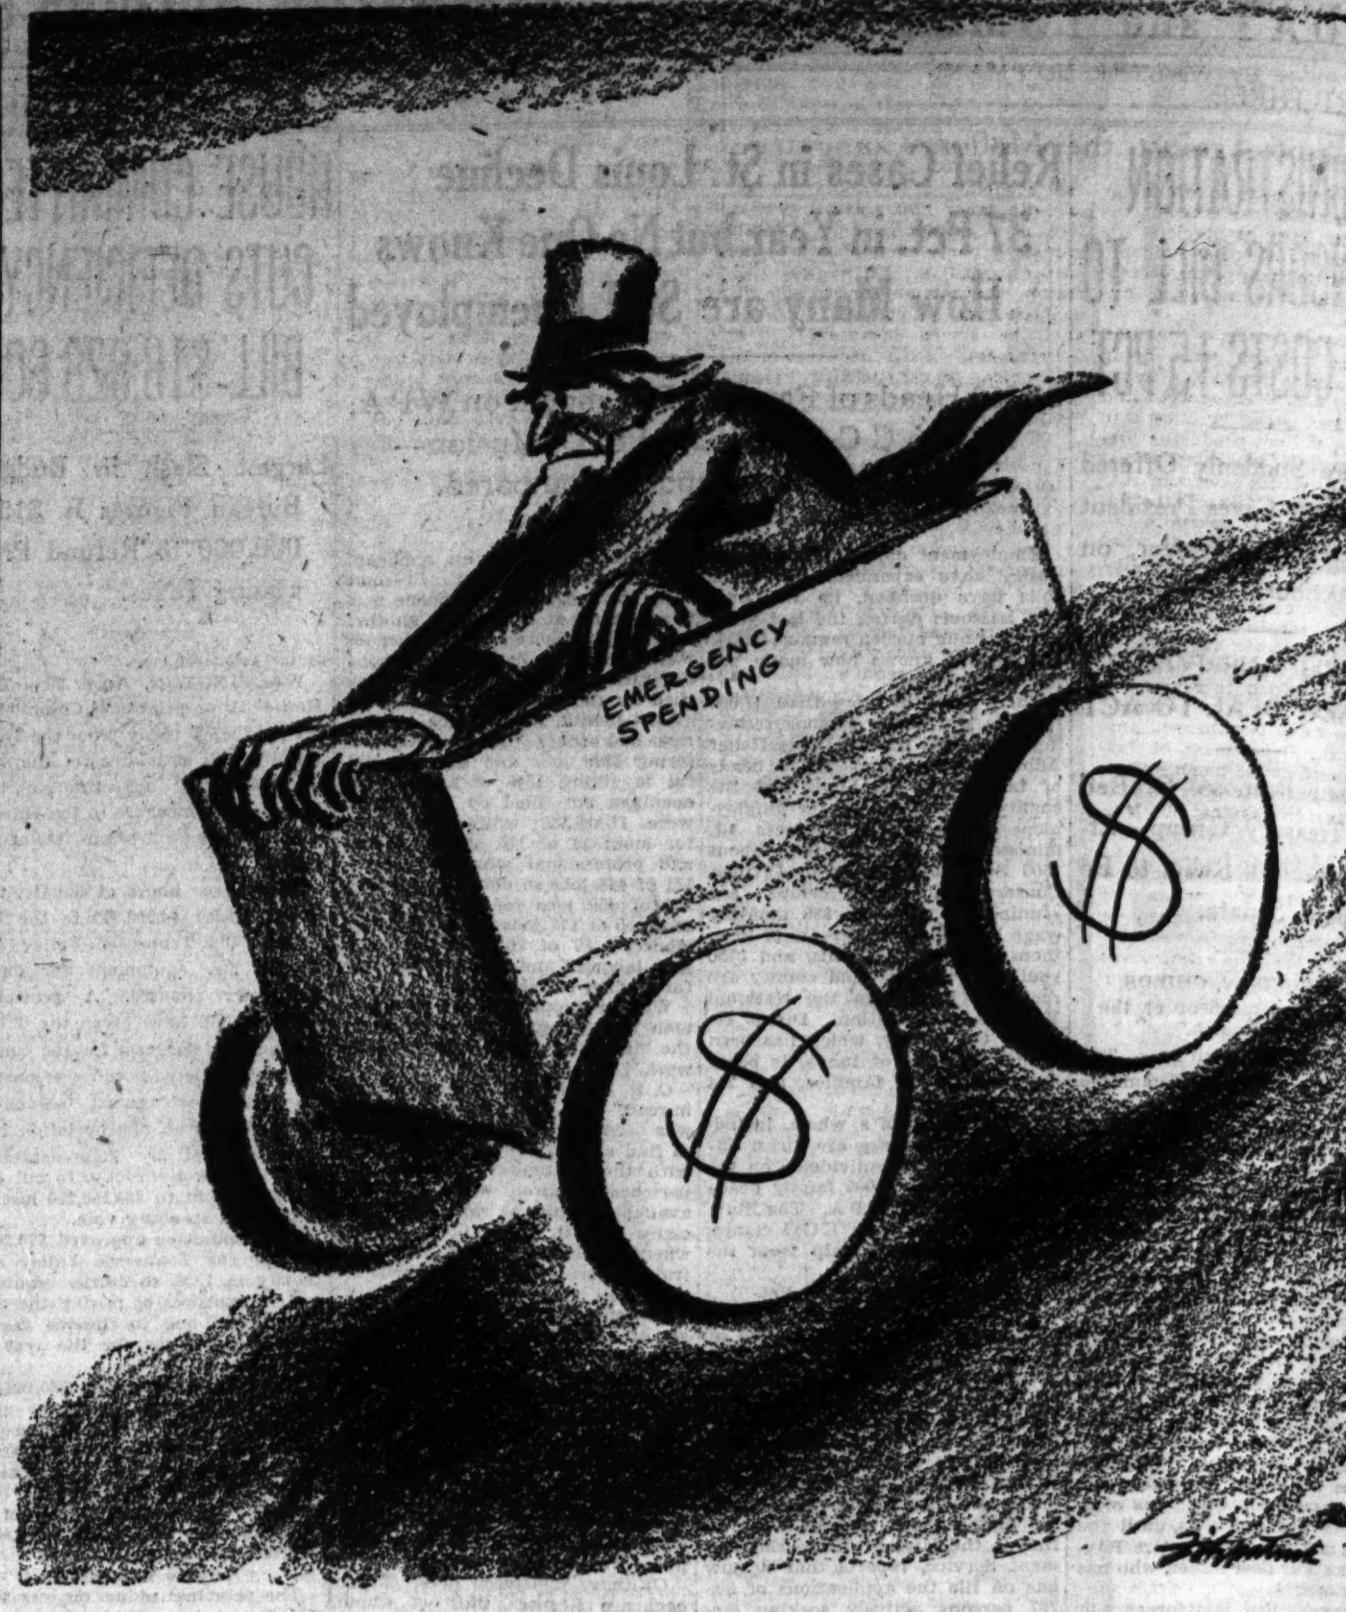

There was the roar of rushing waters, to which the commentator called the attention of his vast invisible audience, a river of turbulent wrath. Pure illusion, achieved by sound effects. Here was Gibbons talking to a diver miles away and down in "the dark, unfathomed caves." Bunk. The diver was an actor, standing right beside Gibbons and contriving his sub-aqueous accents "through a lard can." And the telephone girls, heroically at their posts as the hungry waves lapped their ankles, were sitting high, dry and pretty on a distant, comfortable Aarar.

The reporter who alleges the above feels his reputation for accuracy has been impaired by the imaginative Gibbons and is seeking large redress.

Since the case is in its pendency, we can have no opinion as to its merits. But an idle speculation may be indulged. If Noah had had Floyd Gibbons for a press agent, what a flood story would have cascaded across the ether!

THAT TASMANIAN GRASS.

Far be it from us to interfere with the operation of the Police Department. The St. Louis officers who arrested the elderly peddler of "Tasmanian grass" seed the other day acted in the line of duty. The fact that the distributor had served a year in the Illinois penitentiary for operating a confidence game, as charged by a Peoria customer, who found that the costly seed grew ordinary grass, justified the police in their vigilance. Just the same, something is to be said for the rich old doorbell ringer. He is a man with an idea—a real idea. His seed may not produce grass which stops growing just when it gets high enough to cut, as he represented, but he has prepared the specifications for a lawn covering which every botanist may hope to develop. The unwelcome visitor is at fault in the law today. Let the map of horticultural science bring his idea into reality and generations unborn, freed of the drudgery of lawn-mower pushing, will sing him to a

WHAT! NO BRAKES?

The 10 Per Cent Plan

Senator Byrnes' proposal for 10 per cent cut in all Federal spending is viewed by Baltimore paper as no permanent remedy; it would penalize economical agencies and not curb wasteful ones enough; writer urges discriminating pruning of mushroom bureaus and demobilization of some as best step toward balancing budget.

From the Baltimore Sun.

TO a starving man, half a loaf is much better than no bread. And so, when Senator Byrnes and others who usually send up trial balloons on behalf of the White House begin to talk about a 10 per cent cut in appropriations, a nation that has been on a spending spree can afford to take fresh heart. If we could get total appropriations for the next fiscal year down by 10 per cent, we should certainly be in a less dependent fiscal position than we now are. In default of something better, this sort of indiscriminate economy is to be heartily welcomed.

The Byrnes program would cut the carefully administered Department of State just as much in proportion as the A. A. A. It would affect the industrial and useful Interstate Commerce Commission and the same proportion as the mushroom public works program, to which the 1933 budget allot $465,000,000. Moreover, the Byrnes plan promises to cut the unemployed much deeper than it will the army of Federal jobholders.

But it would be a mistake to infer that the program which Senator Byrnes proposes would effect a permanent change in our fiscal policy or that it would establish a durable balance for the Federal budget. These horizontal cuts in appropriations have a way of fading out after a year or two.

The very fact that they hit the economically administered agencies as hard as the extravagant ones tends to make them unpopular, and the further fact that the executive is always invested with contingent authority to soften their impact in order to prevent hardships tends to break them down.

Given the will to economize in the White House, a 10 per cent cut will spell retrenchment for the time being, but, given the will to economize, it should be possible to put through a more intelligent and, therefore, a more permanently effective program.

What is needed is a thorough and discriminating application of the knife to the mushroom agencies which have grown up under Federal auspices during the last four years. We were told when those agencies were established that they were emergency undertakings and we were allowed to infer, even where we were not explicitly told, that once the emergency was over, they would be demobilized.

If the will to economy really exists at the White House and among the administration's spokesmen in Congress, the sensible

Sales Tax and Old-Age Pensions

From the Topeka (Kan.) Capital.

A GENERAL sales tax is an inequitable tax. It certainly will bear hardest on those least able to bear it. While the poor do not live as comfortably as the rich, they must of necessity spend for necessities far more in proportion to their income than the rich or even the just well-to-do. But a sales tax is rather easy to raise, and that is the principal reason why we have sales taxes.

There is always the temptation to increase a tax which is easy to collect. Most of the states started out to raise taxes on gasoline by imposing a tax of not more than 2 cents per gallon. Now some of the states put on a tax of 7 or 8 cents a gallon.

It looks as if the sales tax may progress upward in the same way. Over in our neighboring State of Missouri, the Legislature started out with a 1 per cent sales tax. One announced purpose of it was to pay old-age pensions. It was estimated that the 1 per cent tax would bring in $12,000,000 a year.

Now they propose doubling the sales tax, and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch boldly charges that "old-age assistance," given as excuse for the 100 per cent rise, has become a racket. Nearly 60,000 persons are now on the old-age pension rolls and 30,000 more are applicants, although there are only 150,000 people 70 and over in the State.

"Why is it?" asks the Post-Dispatch, "that the State must have the extra $12,000,000 that the increase to 2 per cent raises? Why is it that this $12,000,000 must be collected on top of the $12,000,000 the 1 per cent will bring in, on top of the millions that will be raised by liquor and other taxes in the present biennium?"

The present expectation, according to the Post-Dispatch, is that during the coming biennium in Missouri, more than $27,000,000 will be spent for old-age pensions alone, and, then it adds: "Here indeed is an 'Old Man of the Sea' which will sink us unless the rolls are purged, the cheaters driven from the rolls and the old-age assistance movement restored to decency and sanity."

The Suit Against the Mellon Company

FOR four years in which the administration has treated the anti-trust laws as obsolete, the Department of Justice has suddenly brought suit to dissolve the Aluminum Co. of America under the anti-trust laws.

The Government's petition to force the company with doing what the administration has, under A and A A, encouraged and received other producers to do, namely to limit production, regulate regulated stocks, fix prices, and restrict sales and supply.

Thus, the administration asks the courts to force the Aluminum Co. to do what it has been arguing all these years it has been arguing should do.

Under the circumstances, it is at an unfortunate accident that Mr. Mellon should happen to be selected as the first victim of the sudden decision to revive the anti-trust laws. It is unfortunate that so many persons will suspect that the Department of Justice is inspired not so much by loyalty to the anti-trust laws as by personal prejudice against Mr. Mellon.

Nevertheless, the Government's suit may have useful results. For getting Mr. Mellon's company on trial for monopoly, the Government is also putting the existing anti-trust laws on trial. Naturally, no one has the right to say that the Aluminum Co. is an absolute monopoly under the law. Only the courts can say that, and the company must have its day.

But whether the bystander can say that, whether or not it is an illegal monopoly, the company is certainly an economic monopoly. It is the sole producer of pig aluminum in the country, and if the existing laws are unable to prevent Mr. Mellon from being the sole producer of aluminum, then the law needs to be drastically amended and greatly strengthened.

The restoration of competition is the only possible alternative to Socialism, and it would be useless, as well as hypothetical, for any one to bet on the collectivism of the New Deal and yet to cry out that unmistakable economic monopoly should be tolerated by the law.

The company is to be allowed to be the sole producer of pig aluminum in America, and by virtue of its monopoly, plus tariff protection, it can fix prices and wages, do they need to break down the constitutional barriers against a centralized dictatorial government.

The powers of the Federal Government under the Constitution are quite adequate for any administration that wants to restore a free economy. It is only a dictated economy that is barred by the Constitution.

But while the constitutional powers are adequate, it is by no means certain that the existing statutes are adequate. This suit against the Aluminum Co. may disclose the weaknesses of the Sherman Act, and if it does, Congress can then do more useful thing, can do nothing which is at once more truly liberal and more truly conservative, than to reconstruct the Sherman Act and make it thoroughly effective.

HOUSE VOTES TO END SALARY PUBLICITY

Republican Member Says Blackmailers and Thieves Can Buy Lists.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The House voted yesterday to strip from the tax statutes a section under which corporation salaries in excess of $15,000 have been made public.

A 223-to-112 vote sent a repeal measure to the Senate, where the provision permitting publication of the salaries was inserted originally in a tax bill.

In recent years the list of corporation salaries has been submitted to Congress by the Treasury and turned over to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Republicans and Democrats on the committee have protested that regular committee work was interrupted by streams of curiosity seekers who wanted to copy the lists and sell them.

During the debate, Congressmen went through the latest list, a volume containing approximately 30,000 names, at a table in the center of the chamber.

Chairman Doughton of the Ways and Means Committee said the lists had served no good purpose. He declared they had not helped the Treasury obtain a single additional dollar of revenue, and that the costs of preparation were $50,000 to $100,000 annually.

The ranking committee Republican, Treadway of Massachusetts, asserted that blackmailers, thugs and thieves could buy the lists for a few dollars from "some lady downtown."

Progressives and Farmer-Laborites opposed repeal.

Representative Sauthoff (Prog.), Wisconsin, attempted to put through a change which he told reporters would have permitted agents of the Justice Department to inspect corporation salaries at any time. His motion was beaten, 92 to 22.

"The income of the individual is public business," Representative Boileau (Prog.), Wisconsin, said. "The public has a vital interest in knowing how wealth is distributed."

"Isn't it true," interrupted Johnson (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, "that the reason for this repeal is that some of the boys are a little bit ashamed of what they do take?"

Tsykov's first steps at reorganization involve the elimination of Yagoda's "floating power" system of administration. Instead of a small group of powerful men with vague roving powers, the new Commissar has introduced strict departmentalization with definite limits to each official's power.

Tsykov's chief subordinate is believed likely to be Yakov S. Aganov. He is an "old Bolshevik," who is credited with a large share in the suppression of the Kronstadt revolt of 1921 and was the first man sent to Lenin in December, 1934, to investigate the assassination of Sergei M. Kirov, a member of the Politburo of the party. Prinovskiy, Belsky and Berman also are listed for important posts, but each will probably be in charge of a definite department. None of these men had a leading role under Yagoda.

up an average of 35 per cent of the total cost of all projects, the local sponsor paying the balance. Under the ruling, Federal funds will be available for only 6 to 7 per cent of the total cost of a project.

This average is arrived at by allotting to the project Federal funds equal to 15 per cent of the cost of relief labor on the project involved. On virtually all P W A projects, of course, the cost of relief labor is a negligible factor, the biggest share of the total cost going for non-relief labor and for materials. The new rule is in line with the President's recently announced policy of ceasing to spend Federal funds for capital goods, such as building supplies.

What this means is virtually the end of P W A, for there are very few municipalities, or states either, that have sufficient funds to put up 93 per cent of the cost of a project, nor is the incentive there to obtain a sizeable Federal allocation. All sponsors that have had projects approved, but on which allocations have not yet been made, are being notified that the new ruling will apply.

It will not apply, however, to the $1,250,000 recently allocated out of P W A funds for the construction of an addition to the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City. Gov. Stark and a party of State officials came to Washington about two weeks ago and the allocation was approved just in time to prevent the new rule from taking effect.

In another direction, too, a drastic economy is being practiced. The Army engineers, who have year in and year out been among the champion Government spenders, recently submitted to President Roosevelt a report calling for an authorization of $300,000,000 for flood control and related projects. At his press conference yesterday, the President said that he would ask the Army engineers to confer with Government departments having an interest in soil conservation and flood control and in collaboration with the heads of these departments single out specific projects that would add up to the $30,000,000 total for flood control now in the budget. That is in line, the President said, with his recent declaration against lump sum appropriations.

Daniel Bell, Director of the Budget, has been extremely active in recent weeks seeking to compel departments to return to the Treasury balances left from totals appropriated for the present year.

It is the endeavor of every department head to spend all money appropriated in the belief that if any is left unexpended it will be difficult or impossible to get a larger sum for the following year. As June 30, the end of the fiscal year nears, department heads work frantically to get rid of the last penny in the cash drawer. Salaries are increased, new equipment is purchased, investigations are initiated, no opportunity for spending is overlooked. Bell, it is said, has succeeded thus far in bringing about savings of more than $100,000,000.

The economy measure now being drafted will probably accord the President a considerable latitude, as was done under the economy act of 1933. But, also, it is expected to lay down the general lines to be followed in bringing about substantial savings.

Through his writings and visits to the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., Dr. Weissenberg became acquainted with many American scientists among them Dr. E. V. Cowdry, head of the Washington University cytology department, who invited him to join his staff.

Man Sent to Workhouse After Crash; Ordered to Pay $150 Fine.

LOE CLARK, truck driver of Oklahoma City, Okla., was sentenced to the workhouse for 10 days and fined $150 for careless and drunken driving by Police Judge Edward M. Rudy today. He will appeal.

The charges grew out of an accident, March 8 when Clark's trailer truck, loaded with nine tons of farm implements, crashed into a parked automobile in front of 4008 North Broadway and then struck a street car.

A policeman testified Clark appeared to be unfit to drive. The defendant admitted he had had three small beers with his lunch, but denied he was intoxicated or that he had been speeding. He said the force of the first collision damaged his truck so that he lost control and struck the street car.

Congressman Connery Announces Hearings on Textile Measure Will Begin May 10.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 28.—Chairman Connery (Dem., Massachusetts), of the House Labor Committee, said today President Roosevelt had advised him to go ahead with hearings on the bill to regulate hours and wages of 1,250,000 textile employees. Connery said a subcommittee would begin hearings May 10.

He quoted the President as saying he wanted administrative expenses of the commission to be created by the bill to be limited to $350,000 a year. The President also recommended, he said, reducing the proposed membership of the commission from seven to three.

The bill was introduced by Representative Eilenbogen (Dem., Pennsylvania).

PERSHING DESIGNS OWN GALA UNIFORM FOR CORONATION

U. S. General to Wear Blue and Gold Braid With Fore-and-Aft Plumed Hat.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 28.—When John J. Pershing, General of the armies, sails today to represent President Roosevelt at the coronation of King George VI he will carry with him one of the most gorgeous uniforms ever worn by an American officer.

Pershing's baggage on the President Harding will contain what War Department officials term a "General Grant" full dress blue uniform. Pershing adopted the uniform to meet his own ideas of military formality. By War Department regulations he is permitted to design his own outfit.

Gen. Pershing's uniform was made by Frank Krupp, a Washington military tailor, on the model of the army's dark blue full dress uniform dating from Civil War days. It is understood to have cost $600.

The knee-length coat carries gold embroidered oak leaves along the collar and cuffs, four gold stars on each sleeve, and gold spangles on the shoulders. Down the front are 12 gold buttons on each side, arranged in series of four.

Over the right shoulder is a wide, buff sash, which is draped around the waist without covering the belt of gold-embroidered oak leaves. From the belt will hang the saber presented to Gen. Pershing by the First Division. The full length trousers have two gold stripes running down each leg.

The black hat is called a "fore-and-aft" chapeau and is ornamented with ostrich feathers and gold braid. The General will wear patent leather shoes.

Woman Who Took $300 Is Placed on Probation.

Mrs. Sybil Copeland, indicted for taking $300 in funds from the Olmsted (Ill.) postoffice, where she was employed as a clerk, pleaded guilty of the charge yesterday before Federal Judge Fred L. Wham in East St. Louis and was placed on probation for three years. No sentence was imposed.

Mrs. Copeland, discharged after the loss was discovered by post office inspectors, said she took the money during a three-month period after her husband had left her. She said her salary was only $30 a month and that she needed more money for support of herself and her 5-year-old son.

WALSH AND McMENAMY, OUT AS EXECUTORS, FILE REPORT

Place Value of $4648 on Assets of Mrs. Catherine Molloy Estate.

Alphonse J. Walsh and Malcolm McMenemy, removed last week by Probate Judge Glendy E. Arnold as executors of the estate of Mrs. Catherine Molloy, filed a final settlement with the Court today, placing the value of the estate's assets at $4648.

Mrs. Molloy's son, John P. Molloy, assistant city jailer, has taken charge of the estate as administrator appointed by the Probate Court. Walsh and McMenemy were removed as executors at his request. Molloy charged they were not fit executives because the estate's funds were invested with their firm, John McMenemy Investment & Real Estate Co., which is seeking reorganization in bankruptcy.

CHARGES FOREIGNERS PROFIT BY GOLD PURCHASE ACT

SERGEANT DAN DALY, MARINES' 'FIGHTING MAN' DIES

Fought in 30 Wars and Wanted to "Die With His Boots on." Ended in New York Peaceful.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Sergeant Dan Daly, the "fightingest man" of the Marine Corps, who fought for 30 years and won 11 medals for bravery, died peacefully in bed yesterday of heart disease after a week's illness. He was 84 years old.

Sgt. Daly held two congressional medals of honor, a Distinguished Service Cross, a Medaille Militaire, a Croix de Guerre with palm and six campaign medals. He was the hero of many books.

He returned from the World War limping from a shrapnel wound, and retired from the service in 1928. Finally he got a job as night watchman at a bank in Wall Street. He never married.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Representative Daniel A. Reed (Rep., New York), told the House yesterday that while President Roosevelt had Government employees not participating in the market, the administration was permitting foreigners to reap profits here through the Gold Purchase Act.

As a result of the Gold Purchase Act, Reed said, "We are paying an unusual price, $36 an ounce, for gold or something like that, when the market price is about $26 an ounce."

"Foreigners are bringing their money here, getting this abnormal rate taking their pay in our American paper dollars, going into our markets, buying our securities, driving the market up, and then suddenly, just as has happened during the last few days."

Mrs. SIMPSON APPLIES FOR FINAL DIVORCE DECREE

Her Lawyers Think It Will Be Granted Tuesday Unless Unexpected Complication Occurs.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 28.—Wallis Warfield Simpson probably will be free next Tuesday to marry the Duke of Windsor, but the wedding is not expected to take place until after King George's coronation. A final decree, making her divorce from Ernest Aldrich Simpson absolute, will be granted on that date unless there is some last-minute complication which her lawyers think is very improbable.

Mrs. Simpson's attorneys filed notice today that an application for a final decree was being made. The final step will be the routine issuance of the divorce decree at a session of the divorce court six days after notice of the application is filed.

WORLD SUGAR CONFERENCE VOTES TO LIMIT EXPORTS

2 Countries to Sign Agreement Intended to Stabilize Prices.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 28.—A plenary session of the International Sugar Conference today approved plans to stabilize sugar prices through limitation of exports in a free world market to a figure reliably reported to have been set at 3,670,000 tons annually.

Quotas for individual countries were kept secret by unanimous agreement of the delegates.

The formal signing by 25 nations of the agreement and arrangement of details for administering the plan will be the final steps at the conference.

INVESTIGATION IN CULT DEATH

Woman Leader in Utah Refuses to File Certificate.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 28.—Southeastern Utah's Home of Truth cult leader refused today to file a death certificate for a follower who died two years ago, and the State Board of Health proposed to place a special investigator on the case. Mrs. Marie Ogden declined to certify that Mrs. Edith Pershak, whose body, it is alleged, was the object of extended attempts at resurrection, died at the religious colony in February, 1935. In a recent affidavit Thomas E. Robertson, former cult member, announced he burned Mrs. Pershak's body on orders from Mrs. Ogden in August, 1935, seven months after death.

Concern Notifies Toledo Officials of Action Effective Aug. 2.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., April 28.—The Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas Co. notified city officials today it would cease natural gas service within the city limits effective Aug. 2. The company serves 60,000 homes in Toledo.

Asked what the natural gas users would do for heating and cooking services, company officials said they would have to seek some other type of fuel. Artificial gas service will continue. The announcement came after years of discussion on the question of a gas rate.

STOCK BREAK SHARPEST IN OVER A YEAR; STEEL OFF 7

Wall Street Stresses News From Washington Bearing on Price Control and President's Warning on Speculation.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 28.—With ammunition provided partly by Washington news, selling forces today blasted stock market leaders for losses of 1 to more than 7 points in one of the sharpest onslaughts in about a year.

Many new lows for 1937 or longer were registered in exciting early downturn when the high-speed tick-tape at times fell 4 minutes or so behind floor dealings.

Offerings dried up somewhat at intervals and extreme declines were shaved moderately. Momentum again picked up on the downside in the final half hour.

Wall Street's attack of nerves followed advices from the capital indicating a move by the administration to tighten monopoly laws as one means of putting brakes on an inflationary boom in commodity and other prices. Head was also paid to the President's warnings on public stock speculation and the dangers of spiraling living costs.

Further liquidation by London and continental sources burned by slumping staples was seen as a factor in the set-back.

Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

The Associated Press stock price average reached a new low for the year when the 60-stocks total index closed at 66.2, off 1.7 from yesterday. The 30 industrials closed at 89.6, off 2.1, a new low for the year; 15 railroads, 43.2, off 1.1, and 15 utilities, 42.8, off 1.4, a new low.

* Of the total of 941 issues traded in today, 812 closed lower, 40 higher and 89 unchanged. New lows for the year were touched by 395 stocks.

The proposal of Representative Hamilton Fish for legislation prohibiting the Government from paying more than $25 an ounce for gold purchased abroad, was not overlooked. Few here expected any serious move would be made now to cut the metal price from $35-an-ounce basis. Houses with European connections, however, reported many inquiries from overseas on the gold situation.

Slump in Commodities.

Another break in commodities, especially rubber futures, added to the pessimistic tinge of the boardrooms. Grains, though improved after a bad start, corn at Chicago was down 1% to 3 cents a bushel and wheat was up 1% to 1.

U. S. Government securities met buying but corporate loans drifted lower. Strength of some foreign currencies in terms of the dollar apparently reflected heavier than usual stock offerings from abroad.

Share declines were distributed over a broad front with U. S. Steel particularly under pressure throughout. Other conspicuous to-bogganers included Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Crucible Steel, American Rolling Mill, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Dore, Boeing, American Telephone, Western Union, Public Service of N. J., Howe Sound, Anacapa, Keneocot, American Smelting, International Nickel, Westinghouse, du Pont, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Standard Oil of N. J., Seaboard Oil, Yellow Truck, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Pullman, Loewe's, Celanese and Johns-Manville.

At mid-afternoon the French franc was up 2¢ of a cent at 4.46¢ cents and sterling was 1¢ of a cent improved at 94.9¢.

Cotton was off 85 cents to $1.50 a bale.

News of the Day.

Holders of "big steel" seemed a bit disappointed the directors failed to clear up all affairs on the preferred stock. Also the administrative drive on prices combined with anti-trust moves depressed steels as well as other durable goods corporations.

Yellow Truck slipped at a lively gain as first-quarter earnings revealed, despite an upturn in business, only 7 cents a share as against 25 cents the year before.

Notice was taken of the address of President Gay of the New York Stock Exchange in which he stated private financing for plant expansion on a large scale is now essential if the country is to avoid substantial price inflation through restricted productive capacity.

Some rails and oils did better than other departments. Carrier observers studied March operating figures of the principal roads and discovered the aggregate of these reached the highest level for any similar month since 1929 and was about 12 per cent over March, 1930.

First-quarter petroleum company profits were believed to have registered a gain of 45 to 50 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

Washington and Market.

Generally the news from the capital was interpreted in financial quarters as emphasizing administration desires to pull the reins on "inflation tendencies," evident recently in comment of administrative officials and various moves to-

NEW YORK, April 28.—Gulf Oil Corporation, one of the principal manufacturers of electric power, reported net profits of $10,551,720 in 1935. Total assets were equal to $2.90 a share and 1,282 shares outstanding, respectively. Earnings per share were 84 cents, compared with $1.16 a share earned on the same basis. Gulf operated 100 branches of the petroleum division throughout the United States and in several foreign countries.

The contra-seasonal increase carried the Associated Press index of power production, with figures taken as of 100, up to 117, from 116.3 at the corresponding week in 1935. The index is adjusted for seasonal and long-term trends.

Standard Brands, Inc., food processing and distribution, net income for the year ended March 31 of $2,858,492, preferred plus preferred equity, was up 14.3 per cent from the previous year. The company's products have short-term contracts for ships to escape a recession in some areas, but though it is produced, heavy backlog and companies have booked a loss for the third quarter of 1936, up to 31 cents a share.

Walter Steel Corporation reported net quarterly dividend net profit of $10,000,000, up 14.3 per cent from the previous year. Comparison with March 31, 1935, showed a gain of $1.60 a share on the senior stock, and 100 shares more in the corresponding period.

Walter Products Corporation reported net quarterly dividend net profit of $10,000,000, up 14.3 per cent from the previous year. The index is adjusted for seasonal and long-term trends.

RESCUE OF WOMAN AND TWO MEN FROM DROWNING

Thrown overboard in flood waters from a canoe that overturned when they were trying to make fast a houseboat, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leopold and Thomas Fenton are shown after John Williams, right, tender at Memorial Bridge at Washington, D. WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

I THINK a person gets more exhausted and uses up more energy thinkin' about the work he has to do than if he actually did it. I went out to visit my uncle Snad one time and I found him sittin' over in the corner of the parlor, jest completely worn out. I says "What's the matter, Uncle Snad?" And he says, "Well, this farm work's gittin' a little bit too heavy for me." He says, "The plowin' is gittin' me." He said, "I wouldn't mind a little bit of it, but I declare plowin' that 40 acres has jest about got me!" I looked out the window and I says, "Well, Uncle Snad, I don't see any land out there that looks like it's been freshly plowed." And Uncle Snad says, "Well, I don't exactly plow it, but I been turnin' it over in my mind."

A True Prediction

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright, 1937.)

WHEN asking bids were announced to the world a little over a year ago I stated with confidence that this new system of slam bidding would increase by an enormous percentage the efficiency of slam range hands. According to the thousands of letters received from all parts of the world that prediction was justified. But even in my first announcement, and on subsequent occasion, I pointed out that, in the final analysis, only experiences could take all the rough edges off a system or a convention.

Time has proved that asking bids are technically perfect and that they are effective even beyond my fondest hope. But time also has proved that there were two psychological errors in their original presentation. The first was this:

"For years we had taught players that a bid in the opponents' suit (after partner had bid) was a slam try, showing a strong hand, including the ace or void of opponents' suit. When millions of players were asked to change their bidding methods and to use the immediate overcall of opponents' suit as an asking bid instead of the aforesaid cue bid, habit often got the better of them, with consequent confusion in later bidding. Thus, surely as a concession to 'habit,' there have been two changes made in the asking bid system."

The first is that the immediate overcall of opponents' suit, such as: South, one heart; West, one spade; North, two spades—the two spade bid, as of old, a cue bid showing first round spade control and a big hand. To make an asking bid in spades you must jump one round and bid three spades. The other change will be discussed tomorrow.

PEAKING of asking bids, here is a hand from a recent duplicate match. Four teams were using asking bids and four were not. All the "askers" arrived at seven. The others forlornly found themselves in a mere small slam.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding went uniformly as follows among "askers":

South West North East
1 heart Pass 3 hearts Pass
4 spades Pass 6 clubs Pass
5 diamonds Pass 6 clubs Pass
7 hearts Pass Pass Pass

All of the "asking" South players were shrewd enough to select the correct suit in which to "ask" over North's double heart raise. They saw that if the four spade asking bid received a positive response it would be necessary to ask further in other suits and, therefore, started with the highest ranking side suit in order to make their future course smooth. The spade bid elicited that North held second-round spade control and the club ace. On the diamond asking bid that followed, North was able to make a beautiful two-round response, showing not only second-round control of the asked suit, but also second-round control of the club suit. With all this information at hand, South's seven bid was virtually a double-dummy contract.

At the non-asking tables the bidding went two different ways:

1 South North South North
1 heart 3 hearts 1 heart 1 spade
4 no trp 8 clubs 3 hearts 5 hearts
6 hearts Pass 6 hearts Pass

In neither of these latter cases could the partnership easily reach the laydown grand slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the correct response to an opening bid of one heart (opponent having passed) with the following? ♦ A K 7 6 ♠ Q 7 ♣ A 9 8 5 4 ♡ 8 6 4.

Answer: Two diamonds.

Most of the older housewives have had one good experience with congealed grease and learned their lesson. Never pour hot grease down the drain pipe or the sink. As soon as it strikes the cold pipe it will congeal and stop it up. This is particularly true of lamb fat, which will congeal into a hard, immovable mass.

A BIG suit year means a big blouse and gilet year, which a peek into any shop will prove.

This time snowy white neckwear is up against the loveliest models in flower pastels, among which yellow is the strong newcomer. It is a swirl color for your black, navy, or gray suits, and if you have the clear skin for it, yellow goes well with some of the gray beige shades.

ALL the classic collar and jabot designs are on hand, plus many others which reflect the ruffled charms of Beau Brummel and such dandies. Quite a number come with a lamb chow ruffle which hugs the throat almost up to the ears—a style harmonious with our longer hair bobs and swept-up pompadour puffs.

SUCH pretty trifles are not limited for wear with suits, of course. In the flash of rhinestone pin they can transform the effect of an everyday silk frock into something as bandbox-fresh as a primrose. A good basic dress, in fact, expects such trimmings or it wouldn't have called itself "basic" to start with.

Answer: I think the best thing to do is to write to him and say that someone sent you a clipping giving an account of his marriage, and that you hope he is among the first to wish him happiness. If I honestly don't feel that way, I mean I hope they will be happy, of course. Must I write to her? Couldn't I write to him, and what would you suggest that I say? I mean, would you mention about the newspaper clipping?

Answer: I think the best thing to do is to write to him and say that someone sent you a clipping giving an account of his marriage, and that you hope he is among the first to wish him happiness. It is not necessary that you mention him at all.

Beige for a Duchess

PARIS.—Mariana, Duchess of Kent, shows her fondness for beige by ordering two ensembles in this shade from Molyneux. One is a two-piece sports dress in beige and brown, trimmed with buttons in brown and copper, and a scarf of brown surah silk. The other, an afternoon ensemble, has a beige crepe dress which features sunbeams on skirt and sleeves. The beige wool coat has short sleeves bordered with silver fox.

Trailer Fashions

NEW YORK.—The latest thing in vacation costumes is the trailer ensemble. New York department stores match up sets of skirts, shorts, shirts and slacks in durable fabrics, like denim or sheeting, for the vacation on wheels. Either stripes or solid shades are suitable. They advise purchasing several combinations, since trailer life is likely to be dusty.

Note of Regret — Wishing Happiness to Former Fiancee on Marriage.

By Emily Post

DEAR Mrs. Post: RECENTLY we visited in the town in which my daughter goes to college. On the last day of our visit the dean of the faculty telephoned us at the hotel and asked us to come to tea. My husband spoke to him and explained that we were leaving, and thanked him, of course. I had no part in the conversation and neither my husband nor I know his wife at all. Do you think I should write now that we're home, to say something about how sorry we were and to thank them, and if so, should I write to the wife or to him?

ANSWER: Actually no note is necessary. On the other hand, it is always better to be on the side of politeness, and therefore it would not be improper to write a short note of thanks and regret to the wife of the dean—if your own impulse prompts you to do so.

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am "A" and have a dear friend "B" who in turn has two dear friends "C" and "D," whom I know but see only when I happen to be with "B." "B" is now giving a party for "C" who is soon to be married. She has not invited me to the party and in fact asked "D" to come in my presence. I don't want to be unnecessarily narrow-minded at having been left out and yet I can't help but feel that I should have been invited if for no other reason than that of my friendship with "B." Isn't it unusual that the hostess does not ask her best friends to the party?

ANSWER: If it is a shower that you are speaking of, then "B" was absolutely right, since it is considered unfair to ask anyone to bring a present for one who is not an intimate friend of the one to be showered. Had "C" been giving the party for "B" you could very properly have been invited since you would then be expected to bring a present for your own friend. On the other hand, if the party were not a shower, then "B" was extremely rude to invite "D" or anyone else, in your presence and leave you out. It was this fact that was rude; not the fact that she was inviting "D" to the party and not you, since one can hardly invite all one's friends to everything one gives.

DEAR Mrs. Post: The other day I received an air mail envelope in which was enclosed the newspaper account of the marriage of my fiance to the girl who separated us. I believe the envelope was addressed by her, but of course I can't be sure. This man and I have always been friends in spite of the broken engagement, and I don't want to be any less than big now in acknowledging his marriage. I don't know his bride—or I should say we have never been more than speaking enemies—and I can hardly bring myself to write her a letter to wish her happiness, which I honestly don't feel. But for this sake I hope they will be happy, of course. Must I write to her? Couldn't I write to him, and what would you suggest that I say? I mean, would you mention about the newspaper clipping?

ANSWER: I think the best thing to do is to write to him and say that someone sent you a clipping giving an account of his marriage, and that you hope he is among the first to wish him happiness. It is not necessary that you mention him at all.

TWO MAGICAL MINUTES

By Marjorie Hillis

THE other day, I walked unconvincingly onto the balcony of the Grand Central Terminal, in New York City, planning to cross the station, on my way home, and I found myself stopped dead, with a thrill like an electric current going through me. For the scene below wasn't just that of the usual station. The huge room was suddenly a dramatic place, teeming with people going somewhere for the week-end. The great stretch of floor was black with moving figures and the excitement in the air was almost tangible. And over it all was the sound of an organ (well, maybe it wasn't actually an organ, but it was) playing "Going Home." It somehow accented the beauty of that enormous room, which we take so for granted, with its star-spangled ceiling and its great melon-shaped chandeliers. And it made me conscious of all the drama that began and ended there, as people went through the rows of gold statue, dozens of skaters were skating to music, while a thousand visitors (shivering in their Easter finery) looked on. Suddenly it wasn't just another block in the city streets, it was a symbol of the contrast and excitement and adventure that are always just around the corner.

Minutes like that can happen anywhere, of course. I remember once sitting 'round a fire in a room in London and listening while two or three writers, talking intimately, told of moments that stood out in their lives. They were exciting moments, not so much in themselves as because each one had been a sort of lifting of a curtain and the person who told about it had stopped, when the moment came, and savored it and remembered it.

But you can't go out and find them deliberately. I shall walk through the Grand Central Terminal a dozen times in the next few weeks, but I may never find another magic moment there.

For Thursday, April 22.

ITEMS from the past that come bearing what may look like gifts today are likely to be somewhat nebulous or too expensive; so look straight in the mouth. Get the new slant; don't trust experience alone—or those older.

ASTROLOGY IS NECESSARY.

Just as man cannot get along without the earth he lives on, so it is also impossible for him to exist without that mysterious essence known as "life" which comes from some source that is not this earth or any part of it. To seek knowledge about the source and conditioning of life is to be a philosopher. Hence, all great philosophers have been students of astrology.

SHAKESPEARE undoubtedly knew his Hippocrates. He furnishes pretty clear-cut evidence of this in his description of the death of Falstaff in Henry V: "After I saw him fumble with the sheets and play with flowers, and smile upon his fingers' ends, I EAR Little School Girl: In answer to your letter signed "Aimless," which reminds me so much of myself, I just had to answer her. I don't think there is any girl in this world now for any girl who has reached the age of 12 or 13 who goes to school club you go to, you will meet boys and girls in their homes and when they see a girl of 12 or 13 who have no use for them, for some, you don't go back; you just stay at home.

I know that the creation is a serious one with hypocrisy, always do sound alike, the wise, old, Greek gery and medicine, twenty-five hundred years he was who superdevised the Hippocratic conduct that among the numerating things that he used as an index of the disease. In this case, the face of the patient that he was affliction, he gave the seriously been commented on for many centuries; and it has lost none

"Aimless," says Hippocrates must conduct the following way: examine the face of the patient that he is healthy people, and then it is like this: which likes will be the greatest danger, the most dangerous will be a follow-up, eyes hollow, tempestuous turned outward, the face hard and dead, and the color a whole being yellow.

You are entirely too young to be blind to your own status. If, by saying you have no chance, I am to interpret this in terms of beaux and dates and good times, I cannot see even then, the necessity of giving up and becoming morose. Young people of 20 are usually in a state of ambition and activity. There is no reason why you should not emulate the industrious ones by being active in sports and organized activities either for church, charity or pleasure or self-improvement. There are so many; they fairly make one dizzy. Your mother, at 66, evidently has found quite a few things to do. And, while you best be honest for your own soul's sake.

FOR another reason, too. The teacher who asked that question was inexperienced. She did not know the ways of children or she would not have done what she did. But she learned something right there. Being an intelligent person, she thought, as she looked at those hands, "Hm. Mitty didn't talk to her. Katherine helped her, of that I'm sure. Truthful little monkey anyway. And these others, too. At least they can be depended upon to tell the truth. I'll have to be on the lookout for this."

Those who tell the truth, who habitually tell the truth, act truthfully, stand by their principles loyally, are soon known and soon respected. It is a great thing to feel respected by the neighbors, to be able to go down the street with one's head up. It is a great thing to be on good terms with one's own conscience. Don't let any momentary feeling of injustice tempt you to forget this. Stand up and be counted every time, and you will make the count worth while to you and to your people.

AM trying to locate the addresses of various clipping bureaus also those of foreign countries. I will appreciate your kindness in finding these for me. CLARA C.

Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I shall be very glad to mail you a list of clipping bureaus.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM writing in answer to a letter signed "D." I am a girl 20 years old and it seems I am always falling for the wrong boy. I dress well, like dancing and am not lacking in affection; I like to be kind, and even humor people; but the nicer you treat a fellow, the less they think of you.

I've been going steady with a boy for a year and a half. But he breaks dates and makes dates with other girls, taking me out in the week, but reserving Saturday and Sunday evenings for other girls. Mother said I habbed this boy too much. I wouldn't let him take me out much, so that he could save his money—but I certainly didn't get any thanks for it. I always thought that being kind to people would make anyone like you, but it is not so where boys are concerned. I'd really like to have a few opinions of boys on how they like to be treated. D. D.

Dear Mrs. Carr: HAVE wanted to ask you something for a long time. About a year ago, I went to the country to spend my vacation and fell in love with a girl and since have been seeing a lot of her. Now this girl is the daughter of my father's half-brother; they are sons of the same mother. Does this make any difference if we marry? Many say that we shouldn't because we are cousins.

We have gone through a lot together and love each other very much. Your opinion will mean a lot to me. JOE.

First cousins cannot marry, legally, in Missouri or in the State of Illinois; but since you are not really

JUSTICE FOR INDIGENT DEFENDANTS

St. Louis Public Defender Plan Assures Exhaustive Investigation of Cases, and Competent Counsel—Court Co-operates to Sift Innocent From Guilty.

A DEFENDANT, IN LIGHT SUIT, IS ARRAIGNED BEFORE JUDGE FRANK C. O'MALLEY. PLEADS GUILTY AND IS PAROLED FROM THE BENCH. PUBLIC DEFENDER C. LLOYD STANWOOD IS AT DEFENDANT'S SIDE, AND THE PROSECUTOR AT EXTREME RIGHT.

offense for which they might have been put behind the bars, but the Judge tempered his verdict to the mitigating circumstances. The Travelers' Aid, meaning a mental condition has been the primary cause of bringing a defendant into difficulty. In such cases the Psychiatric Clinic is asked to make special investigations and where indicated a proper institution for treatment is substituted for a jail sentence.

Even the prosecuting attorney was so impressed with the drawing of the physical layout of the scene and the doubt it cast on the plaintiff's allegation, that he was willing to concede a case of mistaken identity. A defense demur and motion for a directed verdict were sustained and the defendant discharged.

Another case. A St. Louis man was apprehended in Illinois with a wrecked automobile that did not belong to him. Owner accused him of stealing the machine. It looked like a case for both state action and Federal under the Dyer Act if there had been transportation of a stolen automobile across state lines. The culprit without means to employ counsel appealed to the public defender. Evidence was unearthed to show the automobile had been freely lent him. Witnesses were produced who testified he never had claimed ownership of the car. That frequently they had ridden in it with him with the owner's consent. On the basis of the evidence produced, the Judge ruled a questionable motive in the prosecution. That defendant was not a thief. The case was nolle prossed.

ON the other hand, certain retribution has come to some offenders even more quickly than if their cases had not been so thoroughly represented and had representation been less impartial. Public defenders co-operating with the entire judiciary lay all their cards on the table, the sole purpose on all sides being to see justice done. Acquittals and paroles are not always in order and when there is a plain case of guilt, clients are advised to accept the inevitable. Never, though, without assurance, whether guilty or innocent, of being fully represented with all extenuating circumstances and factors in their backgrounds brought to bear on their cases, and not without the most advantageous plea their indictments permit.

THIS works for greater confidence and respect for the law and creates in the minds of poor persons the belief that they really can get justice in the courts. Drives many an embittered enemy of society of the excuse for becoming more so.

Some of the objects of the defender plan are to expedite court action, save the expense of trials when no trial is justified and, through prompt interviews and arraignments, reduce time of prisoners held in jail awaiting trial. Another is to eliminate jail lawyers, often of the shyster variety, who prey upon the poor and who, if fees are not forthcoming, when a case is set for trial, resort to continuances, trickery and technicalities to circumvent justice and waste time and money for the courts. Many clients, because of social service features incorporated in the system, have come through their encounters with the law better off than they were before, for, while inquiring into social backgrounds, a duty assigned to the investigators is to put a needy defendant, or his family during his incarceration, in contact with proper relief agencies. Effort also is continued to rehabilitate the offender into a good citizen, save him from a criminal career and enable him to avoid a recurrence of the disaster. Employment has been found for clients released through acquittal, parole or completion of sentence. All social agencies co-operate in the work.

Frequently a mental condition has been the primary cause of bringing a defendant into difficulty. In such cases the Psychiatric Clinic is asked to make special investigations and where indicated a proper institution for treatment is substituted for a jail sentence.

Judges perusing an accurately prepared case history can be more sure now of being pulled over their eyes and can be more surely guided by extenuating evidence. Lawyers defending poor clients can better afford to volunteer their services when a case is already prepared for presentation. The public defender's office does not duplicate the work of the free legal aid bureau for the latter handles only civil cases. The work seems to compete only with the shyster lawyer.

It all came about, the Public Defender Plan in St. Louis, because once a boy spent nine years in the penitentiary, innocent of the crime for which he'd been convicted. Because an old mother living in a Hiddle street tenement devoted the years, her labor and pitiable earnings to getting her son out of jail. And because a lawyer gave of his time and skill purely to see justice done. These were elements in a drama which tell their own story of tragedy, suffering and deprivation. It ended happily, the more so now, for its far-reaching effect.

This works for greater confidence and respect for the law and creates in the minds of poor persons the belief that they really can get justice in the courts. Drives many an embittered enemy of society of the excuse for becoming more so. Emanuel Grossman was the lawyer. He was not a criminal lawyer but one time attorney for the Board of Education and well remembered for his civic services, his never-failing public spiritedness. Defense of this case was wished on him by a trusting old woman who was just one of his private, personal enterprises. Her faith, as she brought him retainer fees in nickels, quarters, half-dollars—never as much as a dollar at a time—when she'd sell a few eggs or chickens raised in her back yard or do some scrubbing or odd jobs proved irresistible. Then investigation developed the conviction of the boy's innocence. Slow uncovering of evidence with baffling but persistent effort finally turned up the real culprit. It had been a case of mistaken identity. The man, no longer a boy, of course, with nine years of his youth worse than wasted, was set free.

Emanuel Grossman said he'd enjoyed it. He liked to try criminal cases, enjoyed the battle of wits in a jury trial. Being in private practice a corporation lawyer, he never sent a bill for these cases. He'd had no intention of keeping the retainer fee. Accepting it had served merely as a sort of bond between him and his client. He had deposited the coins all in one place, in a candy box, somebody remembered. Everybody was surprised when they were counted and totaled $300.

But then, the poor mother had been nine years earning them!

The $300 was enough to give the released prisoner a new start in life, though the earnings of a mother's toll scarred hands were the only restitution society had to offer for the years it had deprived him of.

THIS was not the first nor only time Emanuel Grossman had gratuitously defended a prisoner at the bar. Nor was he unique in this respect. There always has been the provision for counsel assigned by the court and lawyers, as officers of the court, are obligated to accept this duty, but no means or facilities were provided for gathering evidence and making exhaustive preparation of a case.

The amount of time and effort consumed in the preparation of this case, the narrow escape of an innocent man from life imprisonment, his obviously inadequate defense in the first place, convinced Mr. Grossman better representation should be provided for this type of first offender. He conceived the idea of a public defender as a logical counterpart to the public prosecutor. It was not a new idea. In other cities and countries the office exists, sometimes privately supported, usually publicly, in recognition of the obligation of the state to defend as well as prosecute.

He interested prominent citizens, many of his own profession similarly endowed with a conscience, in forming the Voluntary Defenders Association to promote such an office. Considerable headway had been made in contributions to a fund for setting up a staff of investigators and in registering members of the Bar Association for voluntary service. Then in 1933 Mr. Grossman died. The depression was on, the movement lapsed, until Mrs. Grossman, his widow and equally public spirited, set to work to promote the realization of her husband's cherished idea. She was joined by several of his contemporaries, notably the deans of the two university law schools. Mayor Dickmann became a supporter of the plan. When Federal funds were being made available for various types of projects, he sponsored an application for a grant from the Works Progress Administration. Under this grant and with the private fund already subscribed the Public Defender Plan is now operating on an experimental basis.

A recent official report on the demonstration over a period of six months makes a good case for the benefits accomplished, in the administration of justice and in savings, both from economic and human standpoints, and commends the service as a permanent adjunct of the criminal courts.

Three Females and Male of Rare Visitors Stop on Creve Coeur Lake.

By Robert A. Randolph

If the most henpecked husband in all St. Louis had been with the 120 members of the St. Louis Bird Club and the Audubon Society of Missouri last Sunday at 6:31 a.m. when they stood shivering in a cold rain and a 40-mile-an-hour wind at Creve Coeur Lake he might have seen a bird whose message would have snapped him out of the lethargy of years, whipped him into a feverish frenzy and sent him home determined to assume his rightful place as head of the family or perish valiantly in the desperate attempt.

There were three female birds sporting about on the water and a male clinging in the reeds ashore, all of the long-billed, snipe-like species known as Wilson's phalarope. As far as the Bird Club knows, none of these migrants, common to Canada and a few Northern states has been seen in the St. Louis area for several years.

Mr. Henpecked would have observed that the females of the species, about nine inches long, were not only larger but also more brightly colored than the male, both of these facts being most unusual in birddom. He could not have helped admiring the female plumage—head and neck white, turning pearl-gray on back, a black stripe passing through the eye and continuing broadly down each side of the neck and gradually becoming a dark chestnut that continues along each side of the back; fore-neck and chest being buff cinnamon, white stripes above eyes, lower parts white. He would have noticed the annoying fact that the male plumage is much duller.

As he watched, he would have seen the females each doing about 20 whirligs a minute on the water for several minutes at a time. Just one of these peculiarities, some birder would have explained to Mr. Henpecked. And when Mr. Henpecked asked what some of the others were he would have been told:

The female phalaropes are most advanced in their notions. It's always leapyear to them for each one decides which male she wants and proceeds to court him. Sometimes you'll see two or three of them standing about the helpless male, solemnly rocking back and forth. Then, with heads lowered and thrust forward, they rush back and forth in front of him and it's time for him to make his choice. The one he chooses protects him from the rejected until they leave to seek another swain. Yes, that's pretty bad but the worst of it is that the male has to scratch a shallow hole in the ground, line it with grass, and then step aside just a minute while the female lays the eggs. . . . What? No, he doesn't stand guard—he sits on the eggs as soon as they are laid and doesn't get off until they are hatched.

Just about then, Mr. Henpecked would have made his resolve to take steps to get himself out of the unfeathered phalarope class.

SHE had a queer, revealing thought which again she kept to herself. It was that now he understood women of her age no more than in the old days he had understood the young girls of his own dear. He would never understand. He said: "Of course parents hope their daughters will marry. There is nothing else for a woman." She raised her eyebrows. "The whole duty, the whole business, the whole hope of women," said Bellane, answering the look with some heat, "is to make themselves attractive to men; and the whole of my experience, Helen, has never taught me to think otherwise."

"Men will always want youth in women. It's natural. Only youth can attract a man." He paused, and added so abruptly that she knew there must be that undiluted fear in his heart: "They're both pleased about it, I think. I mean, the Randles."

"Yes," she said, "I am sure they are. You have everything that would please the parents of a lovely, expensive-looking daughter, Jim. It is astonishing how parents always 'hope' their daughter will marry without any consideration of suitability or otherwise."

Again she had offended him in his quick sensitiveness.

"That is an astounding remark to make just now, Helen."

"Oh, Jim, it was just an err at thought. A nothing."

"It smacked of hostility," he said, "and if you are to say that sort of thing, I'll take the privilege of old friendship, and talk back to you. Women of your age, Helen, if you will allow me to say so, can't help being a little envious of what you call lovely and expensive-looking young girls. That's natural, too. Give me credit of knowing it, my old for his age," Bellane told her confidentially.

She waited, soft and sympathetic.

He argued: "As far as women are concerned, some men never age, and we know it. I don't mean to speak of myself, of course."

She knew intimately and tenderly that he was speaking only of himself.

He went on: "I am not speaking of myself, because I am in actual fact still a young man, but old Randle and men of that type, who have let themselves run to seed early, never learned.

"The truth being that every man like myself, a man who stays young, wants beauty, passion, all that is connected with youth, Helen.

She knew intimately and tenderly that he was speaking only of himself.

He went on: "I am not speaking of myself, because I am in actual fact still a young man, but old Randle and men of that type, who have let themselves run to seed early, never learned.

"The truth being that every man like myself, a man who stays young, wants beauty, passion, all that is connected with youth, Helen.

He said: "Men will always want youth in women. It's natural. Only youth can attract a man." He paused, and added so abruptly that she knew there must be that undiluted fear in his heart: "They're both pleased about it, I think. I mean, the Randles."

"Yes," she said, "I am sure they are. You have everything that would please the parents of a lovely, expensive-looking daughter, Jim. It is astonishing how parents always 'hope' their daughter will marry without any consideration of suitability or otherwise."

Again she had offended him in his quick sensitiveness.

"That is an astounding remark to make just now, Helen."

"Oh, Jim, it was just an err at thought. A nothing."

"It smacked of hostility," he said, "and if you are to say that sort of thing, I'll take the privilege of old friendship, and talk back to you. Women of your age, Helen, if you will allow me to say so, can't help being a little envious of what you call lovely and expensive-looking young girls. That's natural, too. Give me credit of knowing it, my old for his age," Bellane told her confidentially.

She waited, soft and sympathetic.

He argued: "As far as women are concerned, some men never age, and we know it. I don't mean to speak of myself, of course."

She knew intimately and tenderly that he was speaking only of himself.
